INTERPRETING LIFE HISTORIES

An Anthropological Inquiry

by Lawrence C. Watson and Maria-Barbara Watson-Franke

Convinced of the value of life histories in anthropology but critical of the way they have been used, the authors argue that most accounts depend on constructs from the anthropologist's own world rather than the subject's life in context. They discuss well-known life histories that fail to contribute as much as they should to our understanding of experience in other cultures and develop alternative approaches based on a clearer understanding of the interpretive process between researcher and subject. Their book gives special attention to the problems of interpreting the life histories of women, too often viewed as having no lives of their own.

*"... a stunning work — brilliantly argued, carefully researched — of general (even critical) value to the field of cultural anthropology. . . . Kelly's comprehensive examination of the causes and means of Nuer tribal expansion caps nearly a half century of scholarly inquiry. It deals with a central theoretical issue: the interrelationship between social and material causes in historical and developmental processes.

CITY OF GREEN BENCHES

Growing Old in a New Downtown

By MARIA D. VESPERI. The author presents a complete and carefully observed picture of the elderly in St. Petersburg, Florida: the conditions of their lives, representative social programs created to provide for them, and their interaction with the city around them. Their lives, she notes, are characterized by a profound contradiction between how they see themselves and how they are viewed by the community—a contradiction that speaks of the way cultural stereotypes are transmitted to all older Americans. $14.95

THE VARIETIES OF ETHNIC EXPERIENCE

Kinship, Class, and Gender among California Italian-Americans

By MICAELA DI LEONARDO. Taking a novel anthropological approach to the issue of white ethnicity in the U.S., this book challenges the model of uniform ethnic family and community culture, and argues for a reconsideration of the meaning of class, kinship, and gender in America's past and present.

AMERICAN ODYSSEY

Haitians in New York City

By MICHEL S. LAGUERRE. "This book is an unpretentious anthropological essay that seeks to develop a detailed portrait of Haitian immigrant community life. . . . The study abounds with observations . . . and provides needed insights into the dynamics of the Caribbean migrant society in urban America."—Contemporary Sociology. $9.95 paper; $29.95 cloth

HUMOR AND LAUGHTER

An Anthropological Approach

By MAHADEV L. APTE. "Apte's book is unique: anthropologists have written about joking and humor and laughter among the so-and-so and the this-and-that, but there is no work anywhere available that matches the broad comparative perspective that Apte brings to the subject."—Keith H. Basso, Dept. of Anthropology, Yale.

FIVE BODIES

The Human Shape of Modern Society

By JOHN O'NEILL. Taking the human body as the focal point of his inquiry into the complex relation of individuals, nature, and social institutions, radical sociologist John O'Neill argues that the human proportion has been lost in the modern world.

Announcing the publication of
Italian Folktales in America

The Verbal Art
 of an Immigrant Woman

By Elizabeth Mathias and Richard Raspa. Foreword by Roger D. Abrahams. Italian Folktales, a well-documented study of a story teller and her tales in their cultural and historical context, makes a valuable contribution to the field of folklore studies.

In Italy, Clementina Todesco learned to tell the traditional märchen that were part of her culture. Her tales and her tale-telling style changed, however, when she moved to an industrialized America. Her stories then became personal narratives of her life in Italy, wartime episodes, and her experiences as an immigrant. By including both her earlier stories and the newer ones, the book documents the effects of cultural and social changes on her verbal art.

Published in the Wayne State University Folklore Archive Study Series. 346 pages, illustrated, ISBN 0-8143-1790-1, $27.00, 1985.

100 Armenian Folktales

Michael A. Park

CENTRAL CONNECTICUT STATE UNIVERSITY

Anthropology...

...focuses first on specific topics such as evolution, the anatomy and physiology of the species, tools and shelter—then on the overall discipline.

...treats anthropology as a science.

...contains extensive chapter summaries and a comprehensive glossary.

...includes up-to-date discussions of the anthropological perspective on current problems like nuclear war, population growth, and pollution.

Proceedings of the American Ethnological Society

ETHNOGRAPHY BY ARCHAEOLOGISTS

Elisabeth Tooker, Editor

William C. Sturtevant, Symposium Organizer

This collection of papers explores the relationships between archaeology and ethnography. Questions addressed by the authors range from the use of ethnographic data in archaeological interpretations through the ethnographic study of archaeology itself and of the presentation of archaeological results. Originally presented at the AES Annual Meeting in Quebec City, March 1978. $10.00 ($4.00)

THE DEVELOPMENT OF POLITICAL ORGANIZATION IN NATIVE NORTH AMERICA

Elisabeth Tooker, Editor

Morton H. Fried, Symposium Organizer

This volume contains 16 case studies of Native American political organization that range from Alabama to the Aleutian Islands and from prehistoric times to the 20th century. The papers evaluate how successfully recent advances in social and political theory account for the data, and consider future directions further study might take. Originally presented at the AES Annual Meeting in Vancouver, British Columbia, April 1979. $15.00 ($9.00)

NAMING SYSTEMS

Elisabeth Tooker, Editor

Harold C. Conklin, Symposium Organizer

"Relatively little attention has been paid in the literature to the study of names, both place and personal, and ethnonyms. The papers in this volume suggest, however, that the study of naming systems is an important one, adding new dimensions of understanding to familiar observations. Careful attention to the processes involved in naming help illuminate how individuals are transformed into social persons, the interaction of geography and social organization, and the relevance of historical events in the life of the individual and that of the group. Further, matters of classification in naming must be considered as well as etymology. All these are here discussed, and rewards of such studies made evident"—From the Foreword. Originally presented at the AES Annual Meeting in Ann Arbor, Michigan, April 1980. $12.00 ($8.00)

AFFLUENCE AND CULTURAL SURVIVAL
Richard F. Salisbury and Elisabeth Tooker, Editors
Richard F. Salisbury, Symposium Organizer

"Does the fact that a group is rich affect its culture? This collection of case studies explores this question . . . by examining what have been the changes in the culture of particular groups when they have suddenly become rich. What is here defined as richness, or 'affluence,' is then not any absolute degree of wealth but rather an increase in the volume of resources available to the group. . . . The question asked is whether, under such circumstances, the culture 'survives,' or is in fact changed in identifiable directions"—From the Introduction. Originally presented at the AES Annual Meeting in Washington, DC, March 1981. $14.00 ($9.00)

THE PROSPECTS FOR PLURAL SOCIETIES
David Maybury-Lewis, Editor and Symposium Organizer

The needs of the nation-state and their supposed incompatibility with the aspirations of ethnic groups within the state are the usual excuse for the forced acculturation of entire peoples, for expropriating them, otherwise discriminating against them, or, ultimately, exterminating them. This volume, containing a broad range of important writings on pluralism by many of the leading specialists in the field, addresses the issues and problems involved in the overlap of politics and ethnicity. Originally presented at the AES Annual Meeting in Lexington, Kentucky, April 1982. $16.00 ($12.00)

TEXT, PLAY, AND STORY:
THE CONSTRUCTION AND RECONSTRUCTION OF SELF AND SOCIETY
Edward M. Bruner, Editor and Symposium Organizer

"What I believe characterizes the papers included in this volume . . . is an 'opening up' of anthropology, one that takes account of the spontaneity, improvisation, and innovation inherent in social practice, that sees culture as being in production, that is skeptical of fixed meanings and resolved endings, and recognizes the inconsistency and ambiguity of social life"—From the Introduction. Originally presented at the AES Annual Meeting in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, April 1983. $20.00 ($16.00)

SOCIAL CONTEXTS OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY, 1840-1984
June Helm, Editor and Symposium Organizer

"In the exercise of ethnohistorical analysis and interpretation, our tribal history is as much created as it is revealed. So it is with the essays in this volume, for the interpretive stances of the authors . . . become part of the evidence." Thus June Helm introduces this collection of 13 distinguished essays covering 144 years of American ethnology. Originally presented at the AES Annual Meeting in Pacific Grove, California, April 1984. $15.00 ($10.00)
