TOPICAL, ETHNIC, AND GEOGRAPHIC INDEX OF SESSIONS

The following indexes scientific sessions by general topic, including ethnic groups and especially geographic regions where groups are located. It is not an index of individual papers, but a guide to sessions treating these topics. It should also be noted that this index is largely compiled from keywords supplied by authors; this accounts for some inconsistencies in coverage.

Changing Family Life in East Africa

Women and Children at Risk

Philip Leroy Kilbride and Janet Capriotti Kilbride

Modern socio-economic developments have diminished the traditional role and power of women in East Africa. Drawing on nearly two decades of research based on their method of "interactive ethnography," the authors show how this change in status has resulted in more frequent occurrences of child abuse and neglect. East Africans also speak for themselves on polygyny, pre-marital pregnancy, delocalization of traditional values and practices in the extended family, and barmaiding as a stigmatized but inevitable occupation. Extracts from newspapers and popular literature supplement these perspectives.

SAYINGS OF THE ANCESTORS

The Spiritual Life of the Sibundoy Indians

JOHN HOLMES MCDOWELL. Made up of some 200 proverb-like statements, many concerned with dreams and forecasting future events, this study provides a fascinating body of original folkloric and ethnographic material. The book and its interpretative findings will be a valuable resource for anthropologists, folklorists, and many Latin Americanists. 216 pages $21.00

New Cultural Studies

Joan DeJean,

Carroll Smith-Rosenberg,
& Peter Stallybrass, Editors

Cultural studies breaks down traditional boundaries between disciplines, between high and low culture, and between public and private culture in order to study the nature of cultural constructions. The body, gender, and sexuality are seen as discursive constructions related in complex ways to their social context. This series is committed to providing a forum for new works that explore these issues.

CULTURE, KIN, AND COGNITION IN OCEANIA:

ESSAYS IN HONOR OF WARD H. GOODENOUGH

Mac Marshall and John L. Caughey, editors

Culture, Kin, and Cognition in Oceania demonstrates Ward H. Goodenough's influence on Pacific anthropology in eight original essays covering issues of continuing concern to anthropology. These include questions of informant reliability and ethnographic validity, the complexities of culture change, and the ways in which etic concepts obscure emic conceptualizations. Contributors address these issues via analyses of semantic categories and rules, gender, kinship and other aspects of social organization, describing and illustrating them with detailed ethnographic data from Melanesia, Micronesia, and Polynesia. The editors discuss Goodenough's approach to culture, identify influences important to the development of his anthropological thinking, and show how these essays build on his legacy and contribute to contemporary anthropological issues.

ANTHROPOLOGY FOR TOMORROW:

CREATING PRACTITIONER-ORIENTED Applied ANTHROPOLOGY PROGRAMS

—Robert T. Trotter II, editor

Anthropology Practice is one of the hottest growth areas in anthropology today, and Anthropology for Tomorrow provides a model for developing practitioner-oriented applied anthropology programs.

This book, edited by Robert T. Trotter II, contains contributions from 15 authors who represent some of the most successful practitioners and some of the strongest academic leaders in the field of applied anthropology. It covers its subject thoroughly, from an exploration of program philosophies, through program development, to practical suggestions for creating and maintaining successfully tested innovations in training applied anthropologists.

The book provides models for applied programs at both the graduate and undergraduate levels, and discusses the essential core curriculum issues. It has several chapters that focus on the planning necessary for solid program development, and that point out the pitfalls to be avoided—from internal politics to departmental relationships university-wide. Other chapters illustrate successful applied program structures, relate university-industry linkages, and suggest ways to build solid ethics education into the program. It concludes with a provocative projection for the future of applied anthropology.

Anthropology for Tomorrow should prove useful for everyone interested in applied anthropology programs, from the development of a single applied course, to the creation of a well-articulated practitioner-oriented program involving an entire departmental faculty.

AAA GUIDE

The AAA Guide, 1989–90 (formerly the Guide to Departments of Anthropology) has undergone a major redesign in this 28th edition. In addition to all the information contained in the former Guide, the new AAA Guide includes a listing of all current members of the AAA, a separate member listing by unit affiliation, and a separate community college listing. The redesign also entails a change in the size of the publication, from 6" × 9" to 8-1/2" × 11". The AAA Guide lists 485 US and foreign anthropology departments in academic, museum, and research institutions and government with details about

- degrees offered in anthropology
- degree requirements
- number of students in residence and degrees granted
- academic year system
- special resources and facilities
- faculty/staff names, degrees, ranks, and fields of specialization
- graduate support available

Also included are more than 15 pages of tables giving

- degree information for individuals
- locations of academic departments listed and highest degree offered in anthropology
- levels of enrollment
- number of PhD degrees granted

Recent doctoral dissertations in anthropology are also listed.
