Only $198 each!

Disappearing World provides a precious record of the social structures, beliefs, and practices of societies confronting change and, in some cases, facing extinction by the pressures of our expanding technocratic civilization. Traveling to remote corners of five continents, film crews worked in close association with anthropologists who have done extensive field work living with the societies concerned. The result is a series of accurate, enlightening portraits in which the people, their values, and their behavior are allowed to speak for themselves.

TEACHING ANTHROPOLOGY

Give your students some pleasure as they learn. For your introductory classes and those on cultural change, include: Another Side of History: What Euroman Did to the Natives

by A. H. Niehoff

It is a "grabber," a description of the impact of the West on the colored people of the world as related to conquering aliens. Young people will delight in it while learning about the most significant change event since the domestication of plants and animals. $18.95

Re-entry Grants for African Scholars
Pursuing Education Research

The Rockefeller Foundation

This grants program is designed to assist in the professional re-establishment of talented African scholars who are returning from doctoral studies abroad and have a research interest in issues related to the revitalization and development of education in sub-Saharan Africa.

All proposed projects must include an explicit and substantial focus on female school participation as part of the set of educational issues to be examined.

Applicants may submit research proposals prior to or within one year of returning to their Africa-based institutions. Grants are made to the scholar, but the proposal must be endorsed by the African institution where the applicant will be a full-time staff member. Also required are: two letters of recommendation from academic supervisors at the institution where the candidate carried out doctoral study; postgraduate transcripts; and a resume.

There are no deadlines for submission of proposals. For a full description of the program, write to:

ANASAZI PLACES The Photographic Vision of William Current

Text by JEFFREY COOK

Foreword by

KAREN CURRENT SINSHEIMER

The canyons and mesas of the Southwest have been home to many vibrant cultures over the millennia. One of these, the Anasazi, occupied an area now known as the "Four Corners" until around A.D. 1300, when they vanished, leaving no written records. William Current (1922–1986), a noted California photographer of architecture and landscape, began documenting these ruins in the 1960s. His images are strikingly beautiful and crafted with superb technique.

HIEROGLYPHS AND HISTORY AT DOS PILAS Dynastic Politics of the Classic Maya

By STEPHEN D. HOUSTON

This pioneering study uses the inscriptions and monumental art of Dos Pilas in the Peten region of Guatemala to reconstruct the history and fate of a crucial Classic period Maya dynasty (roughly A.D. 250–900). Stephen Houston's innovative approach combines data derived from the hieroglyphs with the findings of archaeology and anthropology to provide a detailed picture of Dos Pilas' development as a dynastic center.

"THE CADDO NATION" Archaeological and Ethnohistorical Perspectives

By TIMOTHY K. PERTTULA

Timothy Perttula's study explores Caddoan cultural change from the perspectives of both archaeological data and historical, ethnographic, and archival records. The work focuses on changes from A.D. 1520 to ca. A.D. 1800 and challenges many longstanding assumptions about the nature of these changes.

INTRODUCING

CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY: A PROBLEM-BASED APPROACH

*By Richard H. Robbins,
State University of New York, Plattsburgh*

CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY: A PROBLEM-BASED APPROACH provides a fresh, new look at cultural anthropology. It challenges students to active and collaborative learning, critical thinking, and recognition of their own culture as a basis for understanding other cultures and culture itself.

ORGANIZATION: The first seven chapters are organized around problems/questions of concern to students and central to cultural anthropology. These include:

- How can we begin to understand beliefs and behaviors that are different from our own? (Ch. 1)
- How do societies give meaning to and justify collective violence? (Ch. 7)

This organization allows for a natural and integrated discussion of such traditional cultural anthropology topics as kinship, gender roles, and religion within the context of meaningful questions. The final chapter applies anthropology to the solution of cultural diversity problems.

AMERICAN FOCUS: In order for students to better understand foreign or exotic cultures, the text contains numerous comparisons of world cultures with American culture.

EXERCISES throughout the text facilitate written, discussion or group work on topics that students will want to discuss in and out of the classroom

THE TEACHER'S RESOURCE MANUAL supplies extra exercises along with guidelines for using them in the classroom, suggestions for further reading, film and video guides, and test questions.

Putting the World in Perspective

Cultural Anthropology
Seventh Edition

William A. Haviland,
University of Vermont

The seventh edition of this best-selling textbook takes cultural anthropology in a new direction by challenging standard perspectives and cultural biases, by offering fresh insight into the world and its peoples, and by providing a foundation for students to examine their place in an ever-changing world.

Cultural Anthropology, 7/e by William A. Haviland opens the world of anthropology to today's students. A new emphasis on geography helps students identify the location of cultures under discussion, and an enlightening section on cartography vividly portrays the cultural biases hidden in maps. Excerpts from Original Studies illustrate the methods used to study human behavior, and Anthropology Applied sections clearly demonstrate the practical applications of anthropology outside the academic setting. Through its diverse photography, substantial material on gender, and rich comparisons of cultural practices in different societies, Cultural Anthropology, 7/e provides a solid and accessible introduction to the study of anthropology.

Nongenile Masithathu Zenani
Edited, with an Introduction,
by Harold Scheub

A master storyteller of the Xhosa people of South Africa, the author gives us twenty-four of her complex and beautiful tales about birth, puberty, marriage, and work, as told to the renowned collector of African oral tradition, Harold Scheub. "I felt," one reviewer commented, "that I was reading the Xhosa equivalent of Homer."

The Genesis of a Martyr Cult in Southern Malawi, c. A.D. 1600
J. Matthew Schoffeleers

The 300-year-old cult of Mbona evolved as a response to Portuguese political and religious oppression. Meshing an indigenous belief system with an imposed European Christianity in a theology of nonviolence, Schoffeleers shows the cult to be a valuable repository of historical information while continuing its role in contemporary political debates. The volume includes texts of seven cult myths in both English and Chimang'anja.

Orayvi Revisited: Social Stratification in an "Egalitarian" Society

Jerrold E. Levy

Hopi society was divided by an internal contradiction between an ideology of cooperation and a highly stratified system of land control, a contradiction that led in 1906 to a split of the village of Orayvi into two factions.
Cloth, $35.00

Ideology and Pre-Columbian Civilization

Edited by Geoffrey W. Conrad and Arthur A. Demarest

Taking a variety of theoretical approaches, the authors seek to understand how ideology interacts with the ecological, economic, and political forces involved in culture change.

Acoma & Laguna Pottery

Rick Dillingham with Melinda Elliott

From the ancient traditions of pottery making at Acoma's "Sky City" to the more recent revival of fine ceramic work at Laguna, Dillingham explores the role and meaning of pottery and potters in Pueblo life. Illustrated.
Cloth, $45.00. Paper, $24.95.

War in the Tribal Zone: Expanding States and Indigenous Warfare

Edited by R. Brian Ferguson and Neil L. Whitehead

In nine case studies, the authors argue that much native warfare has been strongly affected, transformed, or even caused by the presence of European or other colonial states.
Cloth, $35.00. Paper, $15.95.

Dreaming: Anthropological and Psychological Perspectives

Edited by Barbara Tedlock

Exploring the social dimension of dreaming, ten anthropologists and psychologists discuss the ways in which dreams are remembered, recounted, shared, interpreted, and used by peoples spanning the globe.

Distant Mirrors: America as a Foreign Culture

by Philip DeVita and James Armstrong

Fourteen foreign scholars offer fascinating and eye-opening glimpses of American culture from their viewpoints!

In this refreshing collection of readings, anthropologists and other social scientists from Europe, Africa, Asia, and Latin America articulate impressions of our culture they gained while doing fieldwork in the United States. Avoiding highly theoretical, jargon-filled analysis, these articles challenge Americans to look at their own culture with a fresh perspective. Paperbound. ISBN 0-534-17676-3.

Double Vision: Anthropologists at Law

edited by
Randy Frances Kandel

As a result of increasing cultural pluralism and ever-sharpening economic disparities, the role of anthropological expert testimony is expanding beyond issue-oriented litigation about indigenous and minority peoples into more commonplace family, commercial, and criminal cases. Double Vision, the newest in the NAPA Bulletin series, is a reflective yet practical guide for anthropologists working or thinking of working with lawyers and for lawyers working or thinking of working with anthropologists. Written from the anthropologists' perspective, the book renders familiar the exotic culture of law, but attorneys may, with equal profit and pleasure, read it to gain insight into the exotic culture of anthropology.

Topics include:

- Differences between anthropological and legal methods
- Case studies of attorney-anthropologist collaboration
- Guidelines for the expert anthropologist

The Tasaday Controversy: Assessing the Evidence

Edited by Thomas N. Headland

In 1971 a band of cave-dwelling people called Tasaday were discovered living in a remote area of rain forest in the Philippines. These 26 people were reported to be following a paleolithic lifestyle, surviving solely on wild foods, and wearing leaves for clothing. After the international flurry of news articles and TV films in the early 1970s, no further word was heard about the Tasaday for thirteen years. Then, in 1986, news reports suddenly flooded the international press claiming that the whole story had been a hoax.

Are the world-famous Tasaday the most primitive people on Earth, one of the major anthropological discoveries of the century? Or were they the hoax of the decade? In this volume, 19 scholars, 9 of whom did fieldwork in the Tasaday area, present their differing views on this controversy.

The volume shows that no simple resolution of the controversy has emerged. Whatever occurs in the future, however, it is vitally important that the existing evidence be made available for scrutiny and debate, and this is a major contribution of this collection.
