CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY

David Hicks
Margaret A. Gwynne

- ❖ David Hicks and Margaret A. Gwynne believe that American college students are interested in their own cultural experience and that a comparative study of their own culture along with others, will result in a deeper appreciation of all civilizations. In keeping with this philosophy, they have co-authored this completely up-to-date introductory text for the 90s and beyond.

Imagining Ethiopia

Struggles for History and Identity
in the Horn of Africa

JOHN SORENSON

Using theories derived from Michel Foucault and Edward Said, Sorenson analyzes the region through the wide-ranging discourse presented by mass media, by regional "experts," and by the political actors themselves. Sorenson's explores themes of the "invention of tradition," "imagined communities," ethnicity, and the construction of nationalism in Ethiopia.

We've Been Going Native since '52

To bring you the latest word in anthropology, we've been studying cultural trends for 40 years: Bajju marital patterns. Yupik gender status. Papuan card gambling. Sri Lankan multiple selves. Bantu-Kung bantering.

How do we do it? Dedicated subject specialists at sociological abstracts and Linguistics & Language Behavior Abstracts have been "covering the globe," tracking over 1900 journals in sociology, cultural and social anthropology, paleolinguistics, archeology, ethnography, ethnolinguistics, and many other associated disciplines to keep pace with trends and substantive issues of significance to you. Recent articles have zeroed in on current debates: do ethnic groups exist? who were the Indo-Europeans? is postmodern ethnography dead? and continuing controversies regarding human origins, the inherent problems of fieldwork, and the origins of language.

Each issue brings you hundreds of informative abstracts of journal articles and books, as well as coverage of conference proceedings, dissertation citations, and selected book reviews. Indexes of subject, author, and sources are provided for speedy retrieval. Choose from three media: CD-ROM, online, and print.

So, let's go native together. Contact us at:

New in Anthropology . . . from Wadsworth

Available this fall!

Cultural Anthropology, Fifth Edition by Serena Nanda

A wonderful text that continues to capture readers' interest in the study of human cultures! This Fifth Edition offers the features that have made the text so widely read—an intriguing collection of ethnographies, balanced treatment of major topics, and clear descriptions of central theories and applications in the discipline—and now includes:

- ◆ a new chapter on fieldwork and an improved chapter on kinship
- ◆ integrated coverage of theory
- ◆ more cultural comparisons with the United States
- ◆ exciting new ethnographies—plus, the addition of maps for each ethnography

Anthropology and Race by Eugenia Shanklin

A landmark publication that offers a critical study of the uses and misuses of "race" in the field of anthropology. By tracing the historical development of the definition of "race" as well as the studies of "race" that have preoccupied anthropologists for the last few centuries, Shanklin explores the mixed role the field has had in the elaboration of and challenges to racist thinking. As she articulates her argument that "race is not a valid scientific concept, but rather a critical construct in folk taxonomies," Shanklin will inspire readers to see the political realities "race" makes in today's society.

LOOKING FORWARD

Ernest Gellner, President of the Royal Anthropological Institute, writes:

“The collapse of the Soviet system means the end not only of an international order which had lasted for over forty years, but also of an ideological balance of power or contest which had lasted much longer. All will have to be rethought. Apart from the collapse of the extreme collectivist alternative and the violent resurgence of nationalism, there are also the emergence of new highly successful industrial societies without evident links to the individualist ethos which were once said to be the precondition of economic efficiency; the refutation of the secularization thesis in the world of Islam – these are at least some of the crucial developments which cry out for investigation and interpretation.

“In this endeavour, anthropology is bound to play a prominent part. Anthropology covers all aspects of social life; it has a sense of both diversity and interdependence; it enables voices that might otherwise be muffled or distorted to be heard more clearly; it seeks to refrain from projecting the assumptions of one age or culture on others. In the process of reorientation, the contribution of its ideas and techniques will be indispensable.”

The Royal Anthropological Institute has many Overseas Fellows: in fact, they are in the majority.

Individual Fellows of the Institute receive Man 4 times a year, and Anthropology Today 6 times a year, for US$76 (1994 overseas rate). Junior Fellows (under 30): US$44.

Alternatively, 'Members' receive Anthropology Today alone for US$23. You may pay by Visa or Access/Mastercard credit cards, or by £ or US$ check. Members of the AAA's General Anthropology Division may subscribe for only US$17 if they order through the AAA's billing system.

For specimen copies of the journals, full subscription information and Fellowship/ Membership application forms, write to RAI, 50 Fitzroy Street, London W1P 5HS, UK. Tel. 071-387 0455.
