BARNOUW

AN INTRODUCTION TO ANTHROPOLOGY

Vol. I—

PHYSICAL ANTHROPOLOGY & ARCHAEOLOGY

Vol. II—ETHNOLOGY

(both 4th Editions) (both paperbound)

by Victor Barnouw, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee

This two-volume work is designed as a general introduction to the field of anthropology. Both volumes may be used together in a one-semester introductory course on that subject. Courses in Introduction to Anthropology are also often presented in two semesters, the first usually dealing with physical anthropology and archaeology, the second with ethnology. With this division in mind, Volume One was prepared to cover the first semester, Volume Two, the second. A brief section on linguistics is included in Volume Two. Each of the Barnouw volumes stands independently and need not be read in conjunction with the other. COMING IN '82

A Teacher's Manual will be available for both volumes.

Examination copies for adoption consideration available on request. Please indicate course title and text presently used.

CONVERSATIONAL ORGANIZATION

Interaction between Speakers and Hearers

CHARLES GOODWIN

A VOLUME IN THE LANGUAGE, THOUGHT, AND CULTURE SERIES

This is among the first full-length monographs on the sequential organization of conversation. It focuses on the turn at talk in conversation, one of the most pervasive structures within which human social and linguistic behavior is organized, but one that has as yet received very little systematic analysis. Taking as a point of departure the work of Harvey Sacks and his colleagues, this study investigates how the turn at talk is constructed through a process of interaction between speaker and hearer. Among the phenomena examined are systematic procedures for the organization of action, including nonverbal behavior as well as talk, within the turn, and the ability of the speaker to modify both the length and the meaning of an emerging sentence in order to coordinate its production with relevant actions of a hearer. The data consist of videotapes of conversations recorded in many natural settings.

CONTENTS: Introduction. Achieving Mutual Gaze at Turn Beginning. Notes on the Organization of Engagement. Modifying Units of Talk to Coordinate Their Production with the Actions of a Recipient. Designing Talk For Different Types of Recipients. Conclusion. Appendix: Data Sources. References. Subject Index.

STRATEGIES FOR SURVIVAL

Cultural Behavior in an Ecological Context

MICHAEL A. JOCHIM

This book focuses on the ecological relationships between cultural behavior and its environmental context. It is addressed to all individuals interested in human-environmental interactions, including professional anthropologists and general students of human behavior. The proliferation of ecological studies within anthropology suggests the increasing emphasis given to the systemic context of behavior. The aim of this book is to develop a framework for examining these relationships and for comparing diverse ecological studies within a coherent conceptual structure.

CONTENTS: The Context of Ecology. The Study of Behavior. The Context of Survival. Feeding Strategies. Procurement Strategies. Settlement Strategies. Maintenance Strategies. Conclusion: Some Thoughts on Management.

VANUATU

Politics, Economics, and Ritual in Island Melanesia

EDITED BY MICHAEL ALLEN

A VOLUME IN THE STUDIES IN ANTHROPOLOGY SERIES

The islands of Vanuatu, the most recently independent Pacific territory, were the subject of a great deal of anthropological interest in the early decades of this century. But during the next half-century, Vanuatu was almost wholly ignored. This book, which contains fourteen essays written by professional anthropologists, is intended to repair the damage and hopefully bring these most interesting cultures back into the mainstream of anthropological discussion. The first two essays are comparative and theoretical studies focusing on key institutions that were of major concern to the early workers, but are here approached in terms of contemporary theory. The remaining twelve contributions are all based on detailed fieldwork carried out in local communities in eight of the main islands of the archipelago.

CULTURE, PEOPLE, NATURE

An Introduction to General Anthropology, Third Edition

Written from a cultural materialist perspective, the new third edition emphasizes the importance of energy, ecology, work, demography, and politics in human social life as well as considers the importance of symbols, religious values, and ideas. Many controversial topics and new material are included—the latest fossil hominid discoveries; the role of protein and food consumption in cultural development; cannibalism; art; critiques of sociobiology; theories of the origin of sex-role differences; and more. Over 350 photographs, illustrations, charts, tables, and maps round out the presentation.

THE DISCOVERY OF HUMANITY

An Introduction to Anthropology

This lively, jargon-free text is written by an accomplished author and anthropologist who examines new and traditional topics from a contemporary viewpoint. Emphasizing the interconnections among primatology, biological anthropology, and cultural anthropology, the author first examines cultural materials in the context of the natural behavior of nonhuman primates and then focuses on the central question of what it means to be human. The World of the Ancient Maya

By JOHN S. HENDERSON. Assembling information from a wealth of sources—archaeology, history, linguistics, ethnography—John Henderson traces the rise and development of the Maya societies. Lavishly illustrated with photographs and line drawings by the author, this is an elegantly written introduction to the remarkable Maya world. 79 b&w photos, 43 line drawings, 11 maps, 8-page color insert. $29.95

The Endangered Sex

Neglect of Female Children in Rural North India

By BARBARA D. MILLER. Making extensive use of ethnographic studies on rural India and Indian censuses from the past hundred years, the author attempts to solve the question of why boys greatly outnumber girls in rural north India. It appears that the outright female infanticide of the 19th century has been transformed into a more subtle practice—deliberate neglect of and discrimination against females. $17.50

Researching American ^A Guide Culture for Student Anthropologists

Conrad Phillip Kottak, Editor

Can ethnography be objective? How do you choose a topic? Is there an American culture? How does it change?

Conducting original fieldwork is a science—and an art. This volume guides undergraduate students to correct scientific methods and successful personal approaches. Discussions cover the universe of ethnography: the researcher's role, interviewing, questionnaire construction, ethics, coping with the limitations of time and space.

Peer groups, victimization, tipping and class, cosmology in TV news, myths and movies, mothers and fathers, death as custom. By applying anthropological techniques to today's behavior, students learn to be objective about their own culture, and skeptical about practices rarely questioned.

1982 James Mooney Award For Studies of New World Societies and Cultures

The Southern Anthropological Society and the University of Tennessee Press offer an award of $1,000 for the book-length manuscript that best describes and interprets the culture of a New World population. The population may be prehistoric, historic, or contemporary and may be of any ethnic or racial composition. The judges will welcome works in ethnography, linguistics, archaeology, physical anthropology, history, folklore, sociology, and other disciplines, and especially scholarship that crosses the traditional lines separating these areas. Manuscripts are to be sent to the Chairperson of the Awards Committee, from whom additional information may be obtained: Professor Harriet J. Kupferer, Department of Anthropology, University of North Carolina, Greensboro, NC 27412. The award-winning manuscript will be published by the University of Tennessee Press.

Selected Papers from the American Anthropologist

These three volumes, published in commemoration of the 75th anniversary of the American Anthropological Association and in recognition of its major role as the publisher of the nation's oldest and most illustrious anthropological journal, comprehensively represent the trends and interests within anthropology through the various phases of its history, reflecting the highest qualitative standards of the American Anthropologist and the discipline it serves.

1888-1920

edited by Frederica de Laguna

Selections in this volume represent the interests and accomplishments in American anthropology from the establishment of the American Anthropologist through World War I, chosen to exhibit the theoretical, methodological and factual contributions in as many aspects of anthropology as possible, and by as many authors. To illustrate the growth of the discipline, some contemporary surveys and historical summaries, as well as significant book reviews and obituaries, are also included. An introductory essay by A. Irving Hallowell, as well as the editor's Selected Bibliography on the History of Anthropology and introductory notes to the reprinted articles, provide a valuable historical perspective. (This is a reissue of the 1960 edition published by Row, Peterson and Company for the AAA.)

1921-1945

edited by George W. Stocking, Jr.

The interwar period was one of intellectual and institutional diversification in American anthropology, as the students of Franz Boas followed out the diverging leads implicit in their mentor's ambiguous orientation between science and history. Responding to new intellectual influences mediated by departmental affiliations with sociology and the interdisciplinary movement in the social sciences, as well as by fieldwork situations quite different from those of the American Indian reservation, anthropology in the United States turned from historical reconstruction toward synchronic study. Simultaneously, the traditional unity of the field was threatened by "centrifugal forces of specialization" reflected in the creation of new professional organizations in each subdiscipline. In the context of possibilities for government support opened up by the discipline's participation in the war effort, however, the organizational unit of a general science of man was preserved in the restructuring of the AAA after World War II. The editor's introductory essay provides an in-depth historical analysis of the period.

ix + 485 pp. $10 cloth / $6 paper

1946-1970

edited by Robert F. Murphy

This volume represents a cross-section of anthropological thought during the past quarter century, providing a sampling from the subfields of anthropology and from its various theoretical and topical directions, and at the same time presenting those essays of greatest merit and influence. The selections, together with the editor's summary history of the discipline during the period, yield a volume that encapsulates the recent history of anthropology, both in the United States and abroad.

Modern Ethology The Science of Animal Behavior

S.A. BARNETT, The Australian National University. "This is by far the most readable book on what is undoubtedly one of the greatest scientific advances ever made in our time, ethology, the study of animal behavior. It is written with crystal clarity, and includes the study of humankind, as well as a balanced examination of conflicting theories concerning animal and human behavior."—Ashley Montagu

Animal Play Behavior

ROBERT FAGEN, University of Pennsylvania. "Carefully and thoughtfully produced . . . will be a valuable reference document for many years. There are useful appendixes, an extensive bibliography, and well-done author and subject indexes . . . the book should serve as a stimulus to more and better research on play. . . Those who have not followed the play literature can catch up with those who have by reading this book."—Science. "A comprehensive compendium . . . Fagen convinces the reader that even an activity as kaleidoscopic as play is important and can be analyzed rigorously from evolutionary and comparative points of view."—American Scientist

Patterns in Prehistory Mankind's First Three Million Years

ROBERT J. WENKE, University of Washington. "An ambitious and informative survey of the full sweep of evolution from troops of near-apes to the rise of civilizations throughout the world . . . helps establish a sense of continuity in the human story, offering fresh insights into the prehistoric developments that lie at the root of many of our current dilemmas."—The New York Times Book Review. ANTHROPOLOGY: The Exploration of Human Diversity

NEW

THIRD EDITION

Conrad Kottak, University of Michigan

Providing a theoretically balanced integration of the five subdisciplines of anthropology, this successful text studies past and present human cultures in the context of adaptation, variation, and change. This new edition features full chapters on the similarities and differences between human and primate behavior, and anthropology's relevance for defining and solving contemporary economic and social problems.

Health in the Andes

edited by Joseph W. Bastien and John M. Donahue, Associate

Health maintenance in the Andes is the focus of this volume, which examines how Andeans deal with sickness using myth and ritual, and how they maintain physical well-being through physiological and cultural adaptation to an environment with dietary restrictions, diurnal temperature climate, and high altitude. Suggestions for improvement of health conditions conclude the essays. Contributors include George Urioste, Joseph W. Bastien, Hans C. Buechler, William W. Stein, William H. Mueller, William J. Schull, Francisco Rothhammer, James S. Dutt, Paul T. Baker, David L. Browman, William E. Carter, Jose V. Morales, Mauricio Mamani P., James C. Blankenship, R. Brooke Thomas, John M. Donahue, Ralph Bolton, and Michael Sue.

Cultural Transformations and Ethnicity in Modern Ecuador

Edited by Norman E. Whitten, Jr.

Twenty-seven contributors vigorously explore the dimensions and dynamics of ethnicity, cultural continuity, and cultural change in a Latin American OPEC country undergoing radical transformation. Power, ritual, economic development, symbolism, migration, ecology, and ethnicity are all analyzed through a variety of theoretical lenses — encompassing such contrasting approaches as structuralism, Marxism, materialism, idealism, transactionism, and symbolism. 850 pages. $33.95

Mississippi Choctaws at Play

THE SERIOUS SIDE OF LEISURE

Kendall A. Blanchard

In the first detailed analysis of the role of sport behavior in a tribal or small-scale society, Blanchard shows that the tribe's earnest approach to play is rooted in the fundamentals of Choctaw culture and thus is a means by which its attitudes and beliefs — in labor, economics, politics, ritual, and social organization — can be understood. 248 pages. $13.95

Sex Roles and Social Change in Native Lower Central American Societies

Edited by Christine A. Loveland and Franklin O. Loveland

Ten original essays dramatically shift the focus of previous ethnographic studies on Central America by excluding the already well-documented regions of Mexico and highland Guatemala, and by dealing with the sex roles of men as well as women, in the indigenous societies of eastern Belize, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, and all of Costa Rica and Panama. 232 pages. $15.95
