2011 AAA Award Winners

AAA/OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN UNDERGRADUATE TEACHING OF ANTHROPOLOGY

Bonnie Pitblado

This award was established in 1997 to recognize teachers who have contributed to and encouraged the study of anthropology.

ANTHROPOLOGY IN MEDIA AWARD (AIME)

Helen E Fisher

This award was established in 1987 to recognize the successful communication of anthropology to the general public through the media.

ROBERT B TEXTOR AND FAMILY PRIZE FOR EXCELLENCE IN ANTICIPATORY ANTHROPOLOGY

Mark Nichter

This award was established in 1998 to encourage and reward excellent contributions in the use of anthropological perspectives, theories, models and methods in an anticipatory mode.

AAA MINORITY DISSERTATION FELLOWSHIP

Shankari Patel

The annual AAA Minority Dissertation Fellowship is intended to encourage members of ethnic minorities to complete doctoral degrees in anthropology, thereby increasing diversity in the discipline and/or promoting research on issues of concern among minority populations.

DAVID M SCHNEIDER AWARD

Amy Moran-Thomas

Throughout his life, David Schneider's work on kinship, culture theory and American culture was provocative and iconoclastic. This award will be given in recognition of work that treats one or more of these topics in a fresh and innovative fashion.

MARGARET MEAD AWARD

Frances Norwood

This award is presented to a younger scholar for a particular accomplishment such as a book, film, monograph, or service, which interprets anthropological data and principles in ways that make them meaningful and accessible to a broadly concerned public.

HOW TO GET PUBLISHED IN ANTHROPOLOGY

A GUIDE FOR STUDENTS AND YOUNG PROFESSIONALS

Edited by Jason E. Miller and Oona Schmid

HOW TO GET PUBLISHED in ANTHROPOLOGY

EDITED BY
JASON E. MILLER AND OONA SCHMID

A GUIDE for STUDENTS and YOUNG PROFESSIONALS

This one-stop guide to getting published in anthropology gives graduate students and young professionals the crucial information and tools they need to tackle the all-important requirement to publish. Part I provides step-by-step guidance on key efforts that budding anthropologists can benefit from, including organizing a conference panel, creating a poster, presenting a paper, getting an article published in a journal, and publishing a dissertation as a monograph. In Part II, scholars in the anthropology subdisciplines offer first-hand insight into publishing in their areas. Part III covers author contracts, copyright issues, collaboration, and online publishing opportunities. Helpful appendices list anthropology journals and publishers specializing in anthropology books.

The Jaguar Within

Shamanic Trance in Ancient Central and South American Art

BY REBECCA R. STONE

An important new way of viewing the prehistoric art of the Americas, The Jaguar Within demonstrates that understanding a work of art's connection with shamanic trance can lead to an appreciation of it as an extremely creative solution to the inherent challenge of giving material form to nonmaterial realities and states of being.

Current Anthropology introduces

The Wenner-Gren Symposium Series

The Wenner-Gren Symposium Series is a biannual series of supplements that publishes papers from Wenner-Gren-sponsored symposia. Each symposium brings together international scholars for discussion of topical issues in the field. Print copies of the supplements are mailed to current CA subscribers in conjunction with regularly scheduled issues of the journal. The Wenner-Gren Symposium Series is also available electronically on the journal's web site. All supplements are open access, which brings the results of leading anthropological research and debate to the widest possible audience.

The first four supplements in the series—Working Memory: Beyond Language and Symbolism, Engaged Anthropology: Diversity and Dilemmas, Corporate Lives: New Perspectives on the Social Life of the Corporate Form, and The Origins of Agriculture: New Data, New Ideas—are currently available online.

Future supplements include The Biological Anthropology of Modern Human Populations and Human Biology and the Origins of Homo.

Explore the Wenner-Gren Symposium Series online today at

African Conflict and Peacebuilding Review (ACPR)

Edited by Abu Bakarr Bah, Mark Davidheiser, Tricia Redeker Hepner, and Niklas Hultin

African Conflict and Peacebuilding Review (ACPR) is an interdisciplinary forum for creative and rigorous studies of conflict and peace in Africa and for discussions between scholars, practitioners, and public intellectuals. It includes a wide range of theoretical, methodological, and empirical perspectives on the causes of conflicts and peace processes including, among others, cultural practices relating to conflict resolution and peacebuilding, legal and political conflict preventative measures, and the intersection of international, regional, and local interests and conceptions of conflict and peace.

Study in Morocco! Sustainable Development Projects in the Amazigh World

"... this was not only field-school but a life-changing experience."

—Giana Gleeson, 21. Summer 2010 (Quinnipiac University, International Development & Human Rights)

Dar Si-Hmad for Development, Education and Culture is an independent, non-profit, non-governmental organisation in the city of Ifni and the Amazigh Ait Baamrane region of South-West Morocco. Dar Si-Hmad hosts an ethnographic field-school in Ifni and runs a volunteer program so students get the opportunity to contribute to ecologically innovative development projects in the rural area.

Our Ethnographic Field School

Our non-profit organization has developed a new concept in field-schools which foster cross-cultural dialogue and exchange. Classes are built on experimental, experiential learning, community visits and cultural readings. We offer a variety of courses ranging from ecological challenges facing Amazigh communities, and questions of gender and equity, to traditional understandings of the body and ritual healing. We study Spanish colonial urban planning in Ifni, the old capital of Spanish West Africa, and visit unique fishing community (assoh) with natural cave-homes at the bottom of a spectacular cliff. We witness the working of all-women Argan and Cacti cooperatives, discuss these forms of labor-organization in the context of globalisation.

RECOVERING LANGUAGES & LITERACIES OF THE AMERICAS

The world's linguistic diversity is diminishing, with more than 200 languages declared extinct and thousands more endangered. The Recovering Languages and Literacies of the Americas initiative will provide scholars who study endangered languages of North America, South America, and Central America an opportunity to publish indigenous language grammars and dictionaries, literacy studies, ethnographies, and other linguistic monographs through the three participating presses.

111th Annual Meeting Call for Papers

Borders and Crossings

San Francisco, November 14–18, 2012

The 2012 AAA Annual Meeting in San Francisco offers the perfect venue for thinking about border crossings across time, space, embodied differences, language and culture. If we have learned anything in the last decade with the increasing globalization of social movements, the election of the first black US president, and the legalization of gay marriage in five states, it is that borders—taboos, injunctions, stigmas and resource flows—are not fixed, but open to renegotiation. It is in that spirit that we dedicate this meeting to recognizing our discipline's borders and those borders' permeability to relevant transgressions. We want to acknowledge the structures, genealogies and technological changes that continue to shape our research questions, methodological choices, and subsequent interventions in the fields of archaeology, linguistics, physical anthropology and sociocultural anthropology. With respect to disciplinary exclusions and inclusions, the institutional and discursive constraints that shape what we can and cannot do are ours to own and ours to overcome.

Similar to other traditional disciplines, anthropology has increasingly become an interdisciplinary practice, but what is lost and what is gained from such borrowings? Our disciplinary contribution to the social sciences includes our scientific and interpretive methods of knowledge production. But when scholars in other fields use our methods, do we recognize their work as anthropological? And is our work recognizable across disciplines? These meetings offer a chance to reflect on the challenges and opportunities posed by both the crossings by other disciplines into what has long been viewed as our intellectual and methodological terrain as well as anthropology's incorporation of interdisciplinary strategies.

World anthropologies, engaged anthropology, and modes of scientific inquiry are three areas within our discipline that challenge questions of knowledge production at the borders of our field. "World anthropologies" reminds us that anthropology has been taken up differently outside the United States and Europe, and therefore it is important to bring scholars from all over the world together in order to develop a clearer sense of our discipline's topography. Engaged, collaborative, or applied anthropologists who are embedded with environmental, medical and other specialists, ask us to expand our notions of research objectivity and the potential of both qualitative and quantitative research to address social problems. Finally, we continue to reflect on how anthropology sits alongside other sciences as well as how the anthropology of science is reshaping disciplinary boundaries.

Attending to the borders we construct around our discipline allows us to examine how far we can take our discipline methodologically and still recognize and value our work as anthropology. As we explore the centers and outer edges of our field, we have to ask: What keeps us from crossing over permanently into other—imagined or not—disciplinary terrains? Is it the audience we anticipate? The history of our discipline? Is it a mistrust of qualitative or quantitative data? And why do we self-censor? Is it because of funding issues? Legitimacy and translation issues? And what stories do we choose to study and why? By essentially mapping our discipline it is our hope that this meeting will offer our association a chance to celebrate our methodological and theoretical diversity, reaffirm our expertise, transcend our differences, and strengthen efforts to expand our knowledge of the human condition across sub-fields and through a variety of perspectives.

Given our Borders and Crossings theme, we are planning various ways to promote lively conversations throughout the meeting, including a new initiative to encourage reading klatches in cafés and bars to engage early anthropological texts, broadly defined. Our goal in celebrating our disciplinary roots is to remind us of how methodologically open and experimental the founders of our discipline were with respect to scientific and interpretive knowledge production.

Our discussions throughout the meeting on Borders and Crossings will help us gain a fresh sense of how anthropology remains a discipline of engagement and collaboration, and how important it is to acknowledge the indigenous epistemologies that inform our theory.

We look forward to seeing you in 2012!
