SCHOLARLY SESSION TYPES

Presidential Sessions

This year, a select number of sessions have been designated as “Presidential Sessions,” so designated with the AAA President’s approval on the basis of their strategic importance to the Association as they present contemporary scholarship that draws anthropologists together with sister societies and NGOs in allied fields such as heritage preservation, sustainability, and social justice.

Executive Sessions

This year’s theme “Changing Climates: Struggle, Collaboration, and Justice//Changer d’air: Lutte, collaboration et justice,” is a timely call to action for anthropologists and their collaborators to examine how we engage with communities around issues of change over time, including climate change, to envision and build a more equitable future. In this sense, “climates” signals the contexts in which we work: environmental, social, and political climates, as well as climates for research, for inclusion and equity, and for teaching. “Climates” also points to anthropology’s holistic approach, which connects systemic elements and can illuminate shifting relationships, conflicts, and opportunities. Sessions awarded the “Executive Session” designation speak directly to this year’s Annual Meeting theme and were reviewed and selected by the AAA/CASCA Executive Program Committee (EPC).

Invited Sessions

Sessions with the “Invited” designation indicate innovative, synthesizing sessions and are reflective of state-of-the-art or thematic concerns in the major subfields. Volunteer reviewers from each section, known as the Section Program Chairs, award this prestigious designation during the peer review process.

Cosponsored Sessions

Sessions with the “Cosponsored” designation mean multiple Section Program Chairs felt the session was innovative and reflective of state-of-the-art or thematic concerns in the major subfields and/or the scope of their section. Volunteer reviewers from each section, known as the Section Program Chairs, award this prestigious designation during the peer review process.

Gallery Sessions

Gallery Sessions, formerly referred to as poster sessions, are visual presentations of work and/or research. Presenters post materials such as maps, photographs, graphs, charts and/or tables on a display board along with textual summaries of their work. Gallery Sessions provide a more intimate forum for exchange than do regular paper presentations by facilitating informal discussions between presenters and their audience.

Oral Presentation Sessions

Oral Presentation Sessions are lecture-based panels with individual paper presentations and/or moderated discussion.

Roundtables

Roundtables are discussion-based panels that promote and encourage audience participation through a more conversational and interactive presentation style. Roundtable sessions do not have individual paper presentations.

Retrospective Sessions

Retrospective Sessions are Oral Presentation Sessions or Roundtables intended to highlight career contributions of established leading scholars, such as retirement or significant anniversaries.

Volunteered Sessions

Volunteered Sessions represent a collection of individual paper submissions (Individually Volunteered Papers) that Section Program Chairs combined into cohesive Oral Presentation Sessions during the peer review process. Volunteer reviewers from each section, the Section Program Chairs, determine how the sessions are formed and evaluate the newly-created session for consideration and placement on the Annual Meeting program.

Group Flash Presentation Sessions

Group Flash Presentation Sessions are a collection of rapid-fire, engaging performances of dynamic spoken content delivered with a punch. Group Flash Presentation Sessions may include up to 15 presenters and discussants with a speedy five (5) minutes per presenter.

SPECIAL EVENT SESSION TYPES

Business Meeting

Business Meetings enable sections or the association as a whole to come together and discuss pressing issues that pertain to the field. Generally, business meetings are open to all Annual Meeting registrants, regardless of whether or not individuals are members of the section hosting the business meeting.

Board Meeting

Board Meetings allow board members of sections and the associations to gather and discuss the year's developments and future agendas. Generally, board meetings are only open to board members.

Committee Meeting

Committee Meetings allow a space for members of committees to gather and discuss the year's developments and future agendas.

Reception

Receptions are social gatherings for attendees of the Annual Meeting. They serve as reunions, networking events, or space to consider the day's scholarly material. For additional information, please feel free to contact the sponsors or listed participants of the receptions.

ADDITIONAL SESSION FORMATS

Workshops

Workshops focus on engagement, interactivity, and in-depth analysis of pertinent methodologies and subjects within the field of anthropology. These sessions provide opportunities for attendees to update their knowledge and skills in a variety of professional areas.

Workshops are categorized within the following tracks:

1. Academic Training and Career Development.
2. Practicing and Applied Career Development.
3. Technical Skill Development.
4. Humanistic Anthropology.

Workshops require registration  for both the Annual Meeting and the specific workshop. Workshop registration must be satisfied prior to attending the workshop. If the workshop also has an associated registration fee, the workshop will also have the additional fee  icon. View this year's workshop offerings on page 314.

Mentoring Events

Mentoring events are designed to connect individuals at earlier and later career states to tackle general and/or specific career planning and professional development issues. Formats include one-to-one ("instant mentoring"), one-to-many (a facilitated group discussion), or many-to-many information exchanges. Forums to discuss design and improvement of assistive technologies (e.g., online matching, information and referral resources, searchable internship guides and databases, etc.) are also considered mentoring events.

Installations

Installations invite anthropological knowledge off the beaten path of the written conference paper. Like work shared in art venues, installations draw upon and engage meeting attendees in a diverse world of the senses. Installations are meant to disrupt who and what we tend to see at the Annual Meeting, helping to immerse and expose attendees to unique experiences at the intersections of anthropological arts, sciences, and cultural expression. View this year's onsite offerings on page 298.

AAA/SVA Film & Media Festival:

Sponsored by the Consulate General of the United States, Vancouver, Canada

Film sessions engage anthropology through a new lens. The Film & Media Festival, organized by the Society for Visual Anthropology (a section of the American Anthropological Association) screens work by students, professional anthropologists, and professional filmmakers at the American Anthropological Association's annual conference. The Festival jury, comprised of anthropologists and film scholars, selects work to be included in the Festival on the basis of anthropological relevance and value to the field. For more information see the Society for Visual Anthropology's website at www.societyforvisualanthropology.org/film-video-and-multimedia-festival/. View this year's onsite offerings on page 342.

The Society for Visual Anthropology and the American Anthropological Association would like to thank the Consulate General of the United States, Vancouver, Canada for their generous sponsorship and support of this year's AAA/SVA Film & Media Festival.

Certificates of Attendance/Certificates of Presentation

To request a certificate of attendance or a certificate of presentation, please visit the Annual Meeting Information booth during registration hours. To reduce the environmental impact of our Annual Meeting, certificates will not be printed onsite. After the Annual Meeting, digital certificates will be sent, via email, to individuals who submitted requests during the Annual Meeting. AAA and CASCA greatly appreciate your partnership in this sustainable effort.

AAA PRINCIPLES OF PROFESSIONAL RESPONSIBILITY

AAA is dedicated to the dissemination of anthropological knowledge and its use to solve human problems. Anthropologists work in the widest variety of contexts studying all aspects of the human experience, and face myriad ethical quandaries inflected in different ways by the contexts in which they work and the kinds of issues they address. Seven core principles are shared across subfields and contexts of practice.

These core principles are expressed as concise statements, accompanied by brief discussions placing that principle in a broader context, along with more detailed examinations of how each affects or may be helpful to anthropologists in different subfields or work contexts. The Statement of Principles also offers resources to assist anthropologists in tackling difficult ethical issues or the new situations that inevitably arise in the production of knowledge.

The American Anthropological Association does not adjudicate assertions of unethical behavior. These principles are intended to educate, foster discussion, and serve as a guide to responsible decision-making.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT POLICY (American Anthropological Association)

Sexual harassment in any form will not be tolerated at the AAA/CASCA Annual Meeting. Our culture is based on mutual respect and collaboration. AAA/CASCA will do what it takes to enforce our sexual harassment policies and protect our members, staff, and other individuals from harassment, assault, and other misconduct while they are taking part in sponsored events and activities. This policy applies to every person attending regardless of gender, sexual orientation, level, function, seniority, status or other protected characteristics.

What is sexual harassment?

Sexual harassment has many forms:

- Insinuating, proposing or demanding sexual favors of any kind;
- Invading another person's personal space (e.g., inappropriate touching);
- Stalking, intimidating, coercing or threatening another person to get them to engage in sexual acts;
- Sending or displaying sexually explicit objects or messages;
- Commenting on someone's looks, dress, sexuality or gender in a derogatory or objectifying manner or a manner that makes them uncomfortable;
- Making obscene comments, jokes or gestures that humiliate or offend someone; and/or
- Pursuing or flirting with another person persistently without the other person's willing participation.

The most extreme form of sexual harassment is sexual assault. This is a serious crime and we will support those who want to file complaints against offenders with local authorities.

Our rules on sexual harassment

- No one has the right to sexually harass anyone else.
- Sexual harassment is never too minor.
- Sexual harassment is about how we make others feel.
- We assume every sexual harassment claim is legitimate unless proven otherwise.
- We will not allow further victimization of harassed individuals.
- Those who support or overlook sexual harassment are as much at fault as offenders.

How to report sexual harassment

If you are being sexually harassed (or suspect another person is being harassed), please report it to AAA/CASCA staff at the registration desk or exhibit hall. In serious cases like sexual assault, please call the police and inform the AAA/CASCA that you plan to press charges.

If you want to report sexual harassment while at the Annual Meeting, there are two options:

- Ask for a AAA/CASCA staff member at registration or in the exhibit hall.
- Register your complaint via email (aaa.ombuds@gmail.com) or phone ([202] 656-5412) to the AAA Ombudspersons for Sexual Harassment and Assault.

Explain the situation in as much detail as possible. If you have any hard evidence (e.g., emails), forward it or bring it with you.

If you report assault to the police, we will provide any possible support until the matter is resolved. In any case, we will ensure you are not victimized and that you have access to relevant evidence admissible in court, like security video footage or emails.

Disciplinary action

If an individual in attendance is found to have violated the AAA harassment policy, we reserve the right to decide to revoke the individual's permission to be on the premises. Should such an incident arise, the associations will work directly with security and law enforcement to manage the removal process. Protecting the safety and security of those filing complaints is paramount. If there is a broader concern regarding the safety of all attendees, we will provide timely public updates as they become available.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT POLICY (Canadian Anthropology Society)

The Canadian Anthropology Society/Société canadienne d'anthropologie (CASCA) is fully committed to the rights of our members to a safe professional environment free from harassment. Harassment is defined by the Canadian Human Rights Commission as any form of discrimination. This includes making unwelcome remarks or jokes about someone's identity, such as their race, cultural heritage, language, appearance, religion, gender, sexuality, age, disability; making unwelcome comments of a sexual nature; making unwelcome physical contact; making physical and/or verbal threats.

The responsibility to provide a safe professional environment free from harassment is the responsibility of all CASCA members. The CASCA Executive Committee should be informed of any case of harassment that negatively affects our members' participation in CASCA-related activities, including our annual conferences, networks, committees, and awards.

There are cases of research and professional misconduct that may not fit the definition of harassment and/or go beyond CASCA-supported activities. Here, we offer a statement and indicate a procedure that apply only to scenarios where CASCA members are adversely affected by the harassment committed by another CASCA member.

CASCA is not an adjudicating body. Members should seek out appropriate authorities and processes in their home institutions and/or legal jurisdictions. However, when an incident of harassment occurs at a CASCA-sponsored event, a representative of the Executive Committee will liaise with those authorities to provide input into the procedures as needed.

When a charge of harassment is substantiated by an institutional and/or legal process, and when the incident has affected or has the potential to affect a CASCA member's participation in our activities, the Executive Committee will meet to vote on enacting Bylaw 12(b): "Members may be expelled by Resolution of the Executive Committee." In order for this meeting and vote to take place, the CASCA Executive must receive: (i) A confirmation of the decision rendered by the relevant institutional and/or legal processes; and (ii) A statement of fact and impact by the CASCA member targeted by the harassment. The CASCA President will request a statement of fact by the CASCA member determined to have committed the act of harassment. All material submitted to the CASCA President shall be shared with, and considered by members of the CASCA Executive prior to the vote on Bylaw 12(b) being called. The material will not be distributed beyond the CASCA Executive Committee.

ACCESSIBILITY & ACCOMMODATIONS

AAA aims for fully accessible spaces for all attendees. Therefore, AAA is providing a number of accessible practices and resources and requesting attendees to follow specific accessible practices as well.

However, we recognize that we cannot be fully aware of everyone's individual access needs. We also understand that because of different access needs and experiences, as an association, we may encounter access and accommodation contradictions, where people's needs interfere with each other. With these considerations, we aim to provide accommodations while also balancing the individual access needs of all parties involved.

AAA staff will coordinate resources during the Annual Meeting for registrants who submitted their access needs and requested accommodations prior to arrival and will do their best to support attendees who have accommodation requests upon arrival. Should you encounter any problems during the meeting or need any additional information while at the Annual Meeting, please contact Accessibility & Meetings Coordinator Nell or other Meetings Services staff members on-site or via email at accessibility@americananthro.org.

CART Captioning & ASL Interpreting

Computer Assisted Real-time Transcription (CART) and American Sign Language (ASL) interpreting will be available at all general sessions (Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings). Sign language interpreters, assistive listening devices, and other accommodation requests will be provided upon request for all AAA Annual Meeting activities.

Relief Area for Service Animals

A large park is next to Vancouver CC WEST just outside of the Thurlow doors that can serve as a service animal relief area.

Accessibility Seating in Sessions

Accessibility seating is available in every session room. This seating section will have chairs removed from the front rows for mobility assistive devices. The rows next to the areas with removed chairs are reserved for anyone who needs to be closer to the front, whether for mobility, auditory, sight, sensory, or other needs.

Yoga Mats, Earplugs, and Stimming Devices for Attendees

Yoga mats are available for attendees to check out from the registration desk and use during the meeting, whether for alternative seating during sessions or prayer in the prayer room. Earplugs are available in the quiet room and at the registration desk. Stimming devices (tangles) are available in the quiet room and at the registration desk.

Food Allergies

There are no formal meals included in the Annual Meeting program or as part of the registration fee. Several AAA sections, affiliates, and universities may host receptions and special events with food throughout the Annual Meeting that may or may not be open to attendees. Please contact the organizers of these events to identify what food will be served or available.

Prayer Room

Room 107 | Vancouver CC WEST | West Level 1

A prayer room is available at the Vancouver CC WEST. This room will provide a quiet location for conference attendees to pray without interruptions that may occur while in the larger conference space. The prayer room is not available for conversations or meetings.

Quiet Room

Room 108 | Vancouver CC WEST | West Level 1

A quiet room is available at the Vancouver CC WEST. This room will provide low lighting, various seating options, and a space for minimal to no conversation. Attendees can use this space to spend time away from noise, lights, and other stimuli of conference spaces. The quiet room is not available for conversations or meetings.

Environmental/Chemical Sensitivities

To help make this event accessible to participants for whom synthetic fragrances or other chemical odors are irritating or pose reproductive dangers, AAA and CASCA request that you attend Annual Meeting sessions and events free of perfume, cologne, body sprays, and other heavily scented personal care products. Cigarette smoke also remains an access barrier for many. The law requires we maintain a smoke-free environment indoors. If you wish to smoke, please use the venues' designated outdoor smoking areas and refrain from smoking near any other doorways or paths of travel.

Vous trouverez la liste des exposants à la page 347 de ce programme ou dans le programme en ligne (www.americananthro.org/AAA-CASCA). Pour accéder à la salle des exposants, vous devez montrer votre porte-nom. Seuls les participants au congrès annuel portant visiblement un porte-nom peuvent accéder au Salon des exposants.

Cheminez dans votre carrière grâce au babillard d'emplois de l'AAA : le service Carrières et emplois en anthropologie (Anthropology Careers & Employment ou ACE). Il s'agit d'une précieuse ressource pour les chercheurs d'emploi et les employeurs. Pour les chercheurs d'emploi, il est possible d'y chercher les postes à pourvoir, d'y téléverser un curriculum vitae et d'y créer des alertes en matière d'emploi. Les employeurs peuvent y afficher un poste, faire une recherche de curriculum vitae et profiter gracieusement du centre d'entrevues de Carrières et emplois en anthropologie.

Ce centre d'entrevues est l'endroit tout indiqué pour planifier une entrevue en personne entre un employeur et un candidat pendant le congrès. Il s'agit également de l'endroit idéal où afficher un poste à combler dans votre établissement et où trouver un emploi.

Rendez-vous au centre d'entrevues de Carrières et emplois en anthropologie afin de participer à une entrevue prévue, d'annoncer des postes à combler dans votre établissement et de découvrir les possibilités d'emploi offertes.

TYPES DE SESSIONS DE RECHERCHE

Sessions présidentielles

Cette année, certaines sessions ont été qualifiées de « sessions présidentielles » avec l'accord de la présidence de l'AAA, en raison de leur importance stratégique pour l'association puisqu'elles présentent des recherches contemporaines réunissant des anthropologues, des sociétés analogues et des organisations non gouvernementales autour de domaines communs comme la conservation du patrimoine, la durabilité et la justice sociale.

Sessions exécutives

Le thème de cette année « Changer d'air : Lutte, collaboration et justice » invite à point nommé les anthropologues et leurs collaborateurs à examiner notre façon de travailler avec les communautés aux prises avec des enjeux relatifs au changement d'ère, notamment en lien avec les changements climatiques, afin de concevoir et de construire un avenir plus équitable. En ce sens, la partie principale du thème, « changer d'air », renvoie aux changements touchant les contextes dans lesquels nous travaillons – qu'ils soient environnementaux, sociaux ou politiques – ainsi qu'à ceux touchant les milieux de la recherche et de l'enseignement, mais également les espaces d'inclusion et d'équité. Cette composante du thème renvoie aussi à l'approche holiste en anthropologie, qui permet de mettre en lumière les relations en mutation entre les divers éléments de ces contextes, ainsi que les conflits et les possibilités qu'elles sous-tendent. Les sessions dites « exécutives » renvoient directement au thème du congrès de cette année et ont fait l'objet d'une évaluation et d'une sélection par le comité directeur du programme du congrès CASCA-AAA.

Sessions invitées

Ce type de session désigne des sessions innovantes qui font preuve de synthèse et abordent les plus récentes découvertes ou les enjeux thématiques de l'un des sous-domaines principaux. Des évaluateurs bénévoles de chaque section, c'est-à-dire les représentants de section responsables de la programmation (Section Program Chairs), ont décerné cette mention prestigieuse à ces sessions lors du processus d'évaluation par les pairs.

Sessions codésignées

Les sessions codésignées sont en fait des sessions que plusieurs représentants de section responsables de la programmation (Section Program Chairs) ont désignées comme étant des sessions innovantes qui abordent les plus récentes découvertes ou les enjeux thématiques de l'un des sous-domaines principaux ou du champ d'activité de leur section. Des évaluateurs bénévoles de chaque section, soit les représentants de section responsables de la programmation, ont décerné cette mention prestigieuse à ces sessions lors du processus d'évaluation par les pairs.

Sessions de galerie

Les sessions de galerie, ou anciennement communications par affiches, regroupent des présentations visuelles de travaux ou de recherches. Les participants présentent leurs travaux à l'aide par exemple de tableaux, de photographies, de graphiques, de diagrammes ou de cartes sur un tableau de présentation accompagnés de textes résumant leurs travaux. Les sessions de galerie proposent un lieu d'échange plus personnel que les sessions typiques où sont présentés des articles, car elles facilitent les discussions informelles entre les présentateurs et le public.

Sessions de communications orales

Les sessions de communications orales sont des panels au cours desquels divers conférenciers présentent une communication orale et/ou au cours desquels une discussion dirigée a lieu.

Tables rondes

Les tables rondes sont des panels de discussion qui stimulent et encouragent la participation du public dans le cadre d'un format de présentation plus interactif axé sur les échanges. Aucune communication orale n'est présentée lors d'une table ronde.

Sessions rétrospectives

Les sessions rétrospectives sont des sessions de communications orales ou des tables rondes destinées à souligner l'apport et la carrière exemplaires de chercheurs renommés, dans les cas d'un départ à la retraite ou d'un anniversaire important.

Sessions de communications individuelles

Une session de communications individuelles regroupe un ensemble de propositions soumises indépendamment (communications individuelles indépendantes) que les représentants de section responsables de la programmation ont regroupées lors du processus d'évaluation par les pairs en une session de communications orales interreliées. Les évaluateurs bénévoles de chaque section (représentants de section responsables de la programmation) déterminent comment regrouper les communications en sessions et évaluent les sessions ainsi générées quant à leur pertinence dans le cadre de la programmation du congrès annuel.

Sessions de communications éclair

Ces sessions regroupent de courtes communications dynamiques où un contenu mobilisateur est présenté de manière originale. Les sessions de communications éclair peuvent comprendre jusqu'à 15 présentateurs et panélistes qui disposent chacun de 5 minutes de présentation.

TYPES D'ÉVÉNEMENTS SPÉCIAUX

Assemblées d'affaires

Les assemblées d'affaires permettent aux sections de l'AAA ou aux associations de réunir leurs membres afin de discuter d'enjeux actuels liés à leur domaine respectif. En général, tous les participants au congrès peuvent assister à ces assemblées, peu importe qu'ils soient membres ou non de la section ou de l'association tenant l'assemblée.

Réunions de conseils d'administration ou de comités de direction

Ces réunions réunissent les membres des conseils d'administration ou des comités de direction de sections de l'AAA ou d'associations, afin qu'ils échangent sur ce qu'ils ont accompli et sur ce qui est à venir. Ces réunions sont habituellement réservées aux membres de ces conseils et comités.

Réunions de comités

Ces réunions permettent aux membres de comités de se rencontrer afin de discuter de ce qu'ils ont accompli et de ce qui est à venir.

Réceptions

Les réceptions sont des activités de rassemblement pour les participants du congrès. Elles peuvent faire office de rencontres, d'événements de réseautage ou d'espaces permettant d'échanger sur le contenu scientifique présenté durant la journée. Pour de plus amples renseignements, n'hésitez pas à communiquer avec les organisateurs ou participants des réceptions.

AUTRES FORMATS DE SESSIONS

Ateliers

Les ateliers sont axés sur la mobilisation, l'interactivité et l'analyse de fond de méthodologies et de sujets pertinents au domaine de l'anthropologie. Ce type de session permet aux participants de mettre à jour leurs connaissances et compétences dans plusieurs secteurs professionnels.

Les ateliers sont regroupés selon les catégories suivantes :

1. Formation et avancement professionnel
2. Exercice de la profession et développement de carrière en pratique
3. Développement de compétences spécialisées
4. Anthropologie humaniste

Pour participer à un atelier, vous devez être inscrit au congrès annuel et à l'atelier en question. Vous devez vous inscrire à l'atelier avant de vous y présenter. Si des frais sont liés à l'inscription à un atelier, l'icône de frais supplémentaires  figurera à côté du nom de l'atelier.

Événements de mentorat

Les événements de mentorat ont comme objectif de réunir des anthropologues en début et en fin de carrière pour leur permettre d'aborder des questions générales ou précises de planification de carrière et de perfectionnement professionnel. Ces activités peuvent prendre la forme d'un entretien entre un mentor et un professionnel (« mentorat direct »), entre un mentor et plusieurs professionnels (discussion de groupe dirigée) ou entre plusieurs mentors et plusieurs professionnels. Les activités traitant de sujets comme la conception et l'amélioration des technologies d'assistance (p. ex. appariement en ligne, sources d'information et ressources d'orientation, guides et bases de données interrogeables sur les stages, etc.) sont aussi considérés comme des événements de mentorat.

Installations

Les installations offrent de partager un savoir anthropologique autrement que dans le cadre d'une communication écrite présentée pendant une session. À l'instar de créations exposées dans des milieux artistiques, les installations exploitent le monde des sens et invitent les participants à plonger dans une expérience sensorielle. Les installations se veulent une expérience allant à l'encontre de ce que nous nous attendons à voir lors d'un congrès annuel, offrant aux participants la possibilité de s'immerger dans des expériences uniques à la jonction des arts anthropologiques, des sciences et de l'expression culturelle.

Festival de films et de contenus multimédias de la SVA-AAA

Les sessions de films présentent des travaux anthropologiques sous un autre angle. Le festival de films et de contenus multimédias, organisé par la Society for Visual Anthropology (SVA – une section de l'AAA) présente des travaux d'étudiants, d'anthropologues professionnels et de cinéastes professionnels lors du congrès annuel de l'AAA. Le jury du festival, formé d'anthropologues et de professeurs de cinéma, choisit le contenu qui sera présenté lors du festival, en fonction de sa pertinence en anthropologie et de sa valeur dans son domaine. Pour de plus amples renseignements, veuillez consulter le site de la SVA (en anglais) : www.societyforvisualanthropology.org/film-video-and-multimedia-festival/.

Certificats de participation ou de présentation

Pour recevoir un certificat de participation ou de présentation, veuillez vous présenter au kiosque d'information du congrès durant les heures d'inscription. Afin de réduire l'impact environnemental du congrès, les certificats ne seront pas imprimés sur place. Après l'événement, des certificats électroniques seront acheminés par courriel aux personnes en ayant fait la demande pendant le congrès. L'AAA et la CASCA apprécient votre collaboration dans le cadre de cette mesure visant à réduire l'empreinte environnementale de l'événement.

Nous avons choisi un même emplacement central pour l'ensemble des installations et un même horaire d'exposition afin de permettre aux visiteurs de voir et de « vivre » toutes les installations plus facilement. ## AAA PRINCIPLES OF PROFESSIONAL RESPONSIBILITY

AAA is dedicated to the dissemination of anthropological knowledge and its use to solve human problems. Anthropologists work in the widest variety of contexts studying all aspects of the human experience, and face myriad ethical quandaries inflected in different ways by the contexts in which they work and the kinds of issues they address. Seven core principles are shared across subfields and contexts of practice.

These core principles are expressed as concise statements, accompanied by brief discussions placing that principle in a broader context, along with more detailed examinations of how each affects or may be helpful to anthropologists in different subfields or work contexts. The Statement of Principles also offers resources to assist anthropologists in tackling difficult ethical issues or the new situations that inevitably arise in the production of knowledge.

The American Anthropological Association does not adjudicate assertions of unethical behavior. These principles are intended to educate, foster discussion, and serve as a guide to responsible decision-making.

1. Do No Harm
2. Be Open and Honest Regarding Your Work
3. Obtain Informed Consent and Necessary Permissions
4. Weigh Competing Ethical Obligations Due Collaborators and Affected Parties
5. Make Your Results Accessible
6. Protect and Preserve Your Records
7. Maintain a Respectful and Ethical Professional Relationships

POLITIQUE SUR LE HARCÈLEMENT SEXUEL — American Anthropological Association (AAA)

Aucune forme de harcèlement sexuel ne sera tolérée au congrès CASCA-AAA. Notre culture repose sur le respect mutuel et la collaboration. L'organisation du congrès prendra toutes les mesures nécessaires pour faire respecter nos politiques sur le harcèlement sexuel et protéger nos membres, notre personnel et toute autre personne contre le harcèlement, les agressions et d'autres formes d'inconduites pendant qu'ils participeront aux activités et aux événements que nous chapeautons. Cette politique concerne tous ceux et celles qui assisteront au congrès, peu importe leur genre, leur orientation sexuelle, leur échelon, leur poste, leur ancienneté, leur statut ou toute autre caractéristique protégée.

Qu'est-ce que le harcèlement sexuel?

Le harcèlement sexuel peut prendre plusieurs formes :

- Insinuer, suggérer ou exiger des faveurs sexuelles de tout type;
- Envahir l'espace personnel d'une tierce personne (p. ex. contact inapproprié);
- Traquer furtivement, intimider, obliger ou menacer une tierce personne afin de l'amener à participer à des actes sexuels;
- Envoyer ou afficher des objets ou messages de nature sexuellement explicite;
- Exprimer un commentaire à propos de l'apparence, de l'habillement, de la sexualité ou du genre d'une personne de façon à la dénigrer ou à la réduire à l'état d'objet ou d'une façon qui rend cette personne mal à l'aise;
- Émettre des commentaires, formuler des blagues ou poser des gestes de nature obscène qui humilie ou insulte une personne;
- Poursuivre quelqu'un ou flirter avec quelqu'un avec persistance contre son gré.

La forme la plus extrême de harcèlement sexuel est l'agression sexuelle, un crime sérieux. Nous appuierons quiconque désirera porter plainte contre un agresseur auprès des autorités locales.

Nos consignes concernant le harcèlement sexuel

- Personne ne peut harceler sexuellement quiconque.
- Tout geste de harcèlement sexuel est condamnable.
- Le harcèlement sexuel concerne la façon dont nous faisons sentir les autres.
- Nous tenons pour acquis que toute plainte en matière de harcèlement sexuel est légitime jusqu'à preuve du contraire.
- Nous ne permettrons pas que les victimes de harcèlement en soient victimes de nouveau.
- Toute personne qui appuie ou ignore un acte de harcèlement sexuel est aussi fautive que l'agresseur.

Signaler un acte de harcèlement sexuel

Si vous faites l'objet de harcèlement sexuel (ou si vous croyez qu'une personne en fait l'objet), veuillez le signaler au personnel du congrès CASCA-AAA à la table d'inscription ou au Salon des exposants. Pour toute situation grave de harcèlement, comme en cas d'agression sexuelle, veuillez communiquer avec la police, puis informer le personnel du congrès CASCA-AAA de votre intention de porter des accusations.

Pour signaler tout acte de harcèlement sexuel pendant le congrès annuel, procéder de l'une ou l'autre des façons suivantes :

- Vous adresser à un membre du personnel du congrès à la table d'inscription ou au Salon des exposants.
- Faire parvenir votre plainte en ligne (aaa.ombuds@gmail.com) ou par téléphone (202 656 5412) au médiateur de l'AAA en matière d'agression et de harcèlement sexuels.

Vous devrez expliquer la situation le plus précisément possible. Si vous disposez de preuves tangibles (p. ex. des courriels), veuillez les envoyer ou les apporter.

Si vous signalez une agression à la police, nous vous fournirons toute l'aide que nous pourrons jusqu'à ce que le cas soit résolu. Nous prendrons entre autres des mesures afin que vous ne soyez pas à nouveau victime de harcèlement et que vous puissiez avoir accès aux éléments de preuve admissibles en cas de procès, comme des enregistrements vidéo ou des courriels.

Mesures disciplinaires

Si un participant enfreint la politique de l'AAA en matière de harcèlement, nous nous réservons le droit de retirer à cette personne la possibilité d'être sur place. Dans le cas d'un tel incident, l'association collaborera directement avec l'équipe de sécurité et le service de police pour encadrer l'expulsion. Nous considérons primordial d'assurer la sécurité et la protection de toute personne qui portera plainte. En cas de force majeure qui pourrait compromettre la sécurité de l'ensemble des participants, nous fournirons en temps utile à l'ensemble des participants toute nouvelle information au fur et à mesure que celle-ci nous sera communiquée.

POLITIQUE SUR LE HARCÈLEMENT SEXUEL — Société canadienne d'anthropologie (CASCA)

Déclaration sur le harcèlement

La Canadian Anthropology Society/Société canadienne d'anthropologie (CASCA) défend entièrement les droits de ses membres à un environnement professionnel sécuritaire et exempt de harcèlement. Selon la Commission canadienne des droits de la personne, le harcèlement se définit comme toute « forme de discrimination ». Le harcèlement peut prendre la forme de remarques ou de blagues importunes sur les traits identitaires d'une personne, comme son origine ethnique, son patrimoine culturel, sa langue, son apparence, sa religion, son sexe, sa sexualité, son âge ou son handicap; de commentaires indésirables de nature sexuelle; d'un contact physique inapproprié; ou de menaces physiques ou verbales.

La responsabilité de fournir un environnement professionnel sécuritaire et exempt de harcèlement revient à chacun des membres de la CASCA. En ce sens, tout cas de harcèlement perturbant la participation de l'un ou l'autre des membres aux activités liées à la CASCA, y compris son assemblée annuelle, ses réseaux, ses comités et ses prix, doit être signalé au comité de direction de la CASCA.

Il se peut que certains cas d'inconduite professionnelle ou scientifique ne cadrent pas avec la définition de harcèlement ou se déroulent en dehors des activités organisées par la CASCA. Dans la présente, nous présentons une déclaration et précisons une procédure s'appliquant seulement aux scénarios où un membre de la CASCA est victime d'un acte de harcèlement commis par un autre membre de la CASCA.

La CASCA n'est pas un organisme juridictionnel. Les membres doivent se tourner vers les autorités appropriées et entamer les démarches adéquates au sein de leur propre établissement ou juridiction de droit. Par contre, si un incident de harcèlement a lieu lors d'un événement chapeauté par la CASCA, un représentant du comité de direction collaborera avec ces autorités en les appuyant au besoin au cours des procédures.

Lorsque des accusations de harcèlement sont présentées dans le cadre d'un processus propre à un établissement ou d'un processus judiciaire, et lorsque l'incident a affecté ou pourrait affecter la participation d'un membre de la CASCA aux activités de la CASCA, le comité de direction se réunira afin de voter sur la mise en application de l'article 12(b) de nos règlements administratifs: « Le conseil de direction peut radier un membre en adoptant une résolution à cet effet. ». Afin que cette réunion et ce vote aient lieu, le comité de direction devra recevoir (i) une confirmation de la décision rendue dans le cadre du processus propre à l'établissement ou du processus judiciaire pertinent; et (ii) une déclaration du membre de la CASCA victime de harcèlement décrivant les faits et conséquences de l'incident. Le président ou la présidente de la CASCA sollicitera une déclaration de fait auprès du membre de la CASCA accusé d'avoir commis l'acte de harcèlement. Tous les documents soumis à la présidence de la CASCA devront être distribués aux membres du comité de direction, puis analysés, et ce, avant que soit demandé le vote sur l'article 12(b) des règlements administratifs. Ces documents ne seront distribués qu'aux membres du comité de direction de la CASCA.

En participant au congrès, vous accordez à l'AAA le droit d'utiliser votre nom et votre photographie à de telles fins.

DISPOSITIFS ÉLECTRONIQUES

En guise de respect pour les autres participants au congrès, tout dispositif électronique doit demeurer en mode silencieux/vibration pendant les sessions pédagogiques. Tout dispositif émettant un signal sonore (bip, sonnerie, etc.) est interdit. Nous demandons aux participants d'éviter toute conversation téléphonique pendant qu'ils assistent à une session pédagogique. Merci de votre coopération à cet effet.

ENREGISTREMENT D'UNE SESSION

Afin d'enregistrer une session, veuillez faire preuve de respect et de professionnalisme et demander à la personne que vous désirez enregistrer ainsi qu'à l'organisateur de la session s'il est possible d'enregistrer l'activité. Tout matériel enregistré ne peut être publié si les normes scientifiques en matière de permission et de citation n'ont pas été respectées.

WI-FI

Un réseau Wi-Fi est fourni gratuitement dans les espaces publics du centre des congrès. Cette bande passante offerte gracieusement permet de naviguer sur le Web et de consulter des courriels. Elle ne permet toutefois pas de transférer rapidement de grandes quantités de données, comme la lecture ou diffusion vidéo en continu ou le téléchargement de gros fichiers. Les réseaux Wi-Fi réservés aux participants du congrès annuel se nomment « AAA_CASCA » et « AAA_CASCA Exhibits ». Le mot de passe pour y accéder est « change19 ». Notez que la connexion au réseau offert dans le Salon des exposants expirera après 30 minutes, après quoi vous devrez vous authentifier de nouveau.

ACCESSIBILITÉ ET MESURES D'ADAPTATION

L'AAA souhaite que tous les lieux du congrès soient entièrement accessibles à tous les participants. C'est pourquoi elle dispose de plusieurs mesures et ressources en matière d'accessibilité et demande à tous les participants de respecter certaines pratiques afin de rendre chaque activité la plus accessible possible.

Par contre, il est impossible de connaître tous les besoins particuliers de chaque personne en matière d'accès. Nous sommes aussi conscients qu'en tant qu'association, compte tenu des différents besoins et de diverses expériences en matière d'accessibilité, il se peut que nous nous trouvions confrontés à des mesures d'adaptation contradictoires, lorsque les besoins des uns empièteront sur ceux des autres. C'est pourquoi nous nous efforcerons de mettre en place des mesures d'adaptation respectant dans la mesure du possible tous les besoins particuliers de chacun.

Le personnel de l'AAA s'occupera de coordonner les ressources lors du congrès pour tous les participants qui auront fait part au préalable de leurs besoins particuliers et demandé certaines mesures d'adaptation. Le personnel fera de son mieux pour accommoder les participants qui formuleront des demandes à cet effet lors de leur arrivée. Pour tout problème lors du congrès ou pour toute information supplémentaire pendant l'événement, veuillez communiquer avec Nell, la coordonnatrice de l'accessibilité aux événements, ou un autre membre du personnel de l'AAA sur place, ou encore par courriel à accessibility@americananthro.org.

Transcription en temps réel assistée par ordinateur (CART) et interprétation en langage des signes (ASL)

Lors de toutes les sessions générales (mercredi, jeudi, vendredi et samedi soirs), il sera possible de fournir des services de transcription en temps réel assistée par ordinateur (CART) ou d'interprétation en American Sign Language (ASL). Sur demande, il sera possible de fournir un interprète en langage des signes ou une aide de suppléance à l'audition (ASA) ou de répondre à d'autres besoins en matière d'adaptation pour toutes les activités du congrès annuel de l'AAA.

Zone où les animaux aidants peuvent faire leurs besoins

À côté du Vancouver CC WEST se trouve un grand parc, près des portes de la rue Thurlow, où les animaux aidants pourront faire leurs besoins.

Mesures d'accessibilité quant aux places assises lors des sessions

Chaque salle où a lieu une session dispose d'une section réservée aux besoins particuliers en matière de places assises. Dans cette section, certaines chaises ont été retirées des premières rangées pour que des participants utilisant un dispositif d'aide à la mobilité puissent s'y rendre. Les rangées adjacentes aux rangées où des chaises ont été retirées sont réservées pour les participants devant s'asseoir à l'avant pour des besoins en matière de mobilité, d'audition ou de vision, des besoins sensoriels ou d'autres types de besoins.

Tapis de yoga, bouchons d'oreilles et objets d'autostimulation disponibles

Les participants au congrès peuvent se procurer un tapis de yoga à la table d'inscription afin de l'utiliser durant l'événement, soit comme option où s'asseoir durant une session ou pour y prier dans la salle de prière. Des bouchons d'oreille sont offerts dans la salle de repos ainsi qu'à la table d'inscription. En outre, il est possible de se procurer un objet d'autostimulation (objet Tangle) dans la salle de repos et à la table d'inscription.

Allergies alimentaires

Aucun repas n'est officiellement inclus dans le programme du congrès ni dans les frais d'inscription. Différentes sections de l'AAA, organisations affiliées ou universités pourraient tenir pendant le congrès des réceptions ou des événements spéciaux ouverts ou non aux participants et au cours desquels un repas sera offert. Veuillez communiquer avec les organisateurs de ces événements pour connaître la composition des repas servis ou offerts.

Salle de prière

Salle 107 | Vancouver CC WEST | premier étage du bâtiment Ouest

Une salle de prière se trouve dans le Vancouver CC WEST. Il s'agit d'une salle tranquille où les participants du congrès peuvent se rendre pour prier sans être dérangés comme cela pourrait être le cas ailleurs sur le site du congrès. La salle de prière ne peut être utilisée pour échanger ou tenir une réunion.

Salle de repos

Salle 108 | Vancouver CC WEST | premier étage du bâtiment Ouest

Une aire de repos a été aménagée dans le Vancouver CC WEST. Cette salle offre un éclairage tamisé, diverses options pour s'asseoir et un endroit où chuchoter ou demeurer en silence. Les participants peuvent se rendre dans cette salle afin de fuir le bruit, les lumières et autres stimuli associés aux lieux du congrès. La salle de repos ne peut être utilisée pour échanger ou tenir une réunion.

Sensibilités à l'environnement et aux produits chimiques

Afin de permettre que le congrès soit accessible aux participants pour qui les parfums synthétiques et autres odeurs chimiques sont des irritants ou une menace à la fertilité, l'AAA et la CASCA demandent aux participants d'éviter de porter des parfums, des eaux de Cologne, des vaporisateurs corporels ou tout autre produit d'hygiène très parfumé durant les sessions. La fumée de cigarette constitue également un obstacle à l'accessibilité pour plusieurs. Selon la réglementation, il est interdit de fumer à l'intérieur des bâtiments. Si vous désirez fumer, veuillez vous rendre dans l'une des aires extérieures désignées pour fumeurs et éviter de fumer près de toute autre entrée ou voie d'accès.

2:00 – 3:45 PM

4-0890 Shifting Boundaries of Sports Culture

There have been many contributors to the topic of sports and culture, but traditional categories of anthropological inquiry often overlook the critical value of sports culture. Sporting practice as a methodology and as a framework for research deserves more attention in the discipline. This poster session examines the shifting cultural landscapes of identity through sports. Using research examples from various parts of the globe we offer insight into how sports are a cultural production of practice, a space that allows participants and spectators an opportunity to engage with a fluid ethnic identity that contradicts local characteristics of race, ethnicity, and biopower. Sports contain rules and social structure that creates a foundation for cultural practice to emerge. Race, ethnicity, and politics of the body include social structures that build a foundation for identity categories to develop. Therefore, each poster offers an analysis of how sporting practice serves as a band on the spectrum of a sporting culture that highlights moments when identities emerge. The poster session intends to create synergy between the cultural productions of sport and the expanding possibilities of research opportunities in the discipline of anthropology.

4:15 – 6:00 PM

Late-Breaking Gallery Submissions

Features visual representations of work and/or research that address late-breaking and timely topics in this year's Late-Breaking themes: global environmental change; migration and displacement; human rights; indigenous-settler relations; race and social justice; global health; cultural heritage protection; and conflict and collaboration.

10:15 AM – 12:00 PM

5-0435 In Their Own Words: Survivor Perspectives of Origins and Impacts of the 2015 Nepal Earthquakes

We present our methods and findings of research to document survivor-narrated experiences of the 2015 Nepal earthquakes. We present this research which investigates how survivors navigate their social and cultural settings when recovering from and interpreting distressing events (Evers et al 2016). Many narratives include discussions of “western/scientific” understandings of earthquake origins. We also observe that causality is encoded as largely celestial and spiritual.

2:00 – 3:45 PM

5-0840 First Rites: Innovative Undergraduate Research in Anthropology

Undergraduate students are an increasingly important element in the production of anthropological knowledge. In its best form, undergraduate research can be seen as an apprenticeship, wherein the novice is granted a partnership and some degree of agency in pushing the boundaries of and crossing into new frontiers of shared knowledge. Collaboration with undergraduate students in research is one of the important ways we can facilitate innovation within our discipline. Their research breaks down classroom/research boundaries, focuses on the importance of experiential learning, and exploits the naiveté and vigor of students not yet indoctrinated into paradigmatic complacency. Undergraduate students can be agents and partners in reshaping the landscape of anthropology. The importance of undergraduate research and scholarly activity is underscored both in financial support by federal-level agencies, such as the National Science Foundation, National Endowment for the Humanities, and the National Institutes of Health, and the growing number of faculty-student collaborations in anthropology departments across the globe. Through their engagement, undergraduate students challenge current boundaries and present their findings in the inter-disciplinary medium of visual posters to enrich anthropological inquiry into the human experience. Students are especially encouraged to present on topics that link to this year's theme of “Changing Climates: Struggle, Collaboration, and Justice/Changer d’air: Lutte, collaboration et justice.”

4:15 – 6:00 PM

Late-Breaking Gallery Submissions

Features visual representations of work and/or research that address late-breaking and timely topics in this year's Late-Breaking themes: global environmental change; migration and displacement; human rights; indigenous-settler relations; race and social justice; global health; cultural heritage protection; and conflict and collaboration.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 20

1:00 – 5:00 PM | Room 18 | Vancouver CC EAST | East Meeting Level

2-0205 Archives 101 Workshop

Workshop Pricing (USD): $20 student/$40 professional

Workshop Tracks: Academic Career Development, Practicing/Applied Career Development, Humanistic Anthropology, Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: students, generalists, specialists, practicing/applied, in all four fields

Archives are increasingly being used in research by anthropologists in all four fields. However, few anthropologists receive specific training in how to conduct archival research. This workshop will demystify archival repositories and provide an orientation to conducting research in archives. The workshop will have three parts: 1. an overview of the nature of archival repositories (the principles of archival organization, what “access” and “preservation” mean in an archival context); 2. how to translate a research question into an archival research plan; and 3. how to use collection databases, catalogs, and finding aids to locate materials of interest. The workshop will be taught by archivists from repositories with significant anthropological holdings. Time will be given to assisting participants in searching for archival materials relevant to their own research interests.

ORGANIZERS: Gina Rappaport (Smithsonian Institution, National Anthropological Archives)
Diana Marsh (Smithsonian Institution)

PRESENTER: Gina Rappaport (Smithsonian Institution, National Anthropological Archives)

2-0210 Intercultural Competency for Anthropologists Workshop

Workshop Pricing (USD): $20 student/$40 professional

Workshop Tracks: Academic Career Development, Practicing/Applied Career Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Students, generalists, specialists, practicing and applied anthropologists, scholars, academics, community partners

This workshop provides an opportunity for anthropology students, researchers, practitioners, and scholars to learn about the field of InterCultural Competency (ICC) and the future role that anthropologists can play in building a more equitable future. ICC provides anthropologists with an opportunity to engage with increasingly diverse workplaces and communities in a time of conflict and change.

The organizers of this workshop are a psychologist/anthropologist who is also a practicing intercultural competency facilitator for public institutions and community organizations and, an applied anthropologist working in academia who has conducted research on the experience of diversity and exclusion in Canadian workplaces, is a trained ICC facilitator, and who has developed evidence-based ICC training materials.

This workshop will first situate ICC in the field of anthropology and then, work with participants to identify cross-over skills from their anthropological training into the field of ICC. Workshop participants will work through case study scenarios and practice activities used in actual ICC training sessions. The majority of this session will focus on the following case study topics: (1) identity politics in workplace practice; (2) discrimination throughout the organization; (3) anthropological methods as an ICC tool; and, (4) ICC for travelers. Participants will leave this session with a better understanding of how and why anthropologists can bring value and rigor to the field of ICC.

Have you ever wanted to talk directly to the public about your work? In this four-hour workshop, we'll talk and lead activities on using Twitter as a research methodology, a forum for professional networking, and an outlet for public outreach and communication. This workshop is aimed at newcomers, so no experience is necessary. We'll talk about everything from setting up your account to using hashtags effectively to ethical concerns and the IRB to campaigns like #MammalMarchMadness and #DeStressMyDiss. ### Stand Up and Speak Out to Eliminate Violence and Harassment in Anthropology Workshop

Affiliated with: Association for Feminist Anthropology

Workshop Tracks: Academic Career Development, Practicing/Applied Career Development, Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Academics, practicing/applied, generalists, students, community partners

Around the world, research has shown that standing up to and speaking out against sexual violence and sexual harassment makes a difference. In this workshop, we will review U.S. policies related to sexual violence and sexual harassment reduction and elimination. In the second section, we will introduce common approaches to prevention and intervention for higher education constituents, grounding these models in larger histories. The third section will provide tips for evaluating, assessing, and sharing the successes of individual and organizational efforts to reduce and eliminate sexual violence and sexual harassment. Throughout the workshop, we will devote significant time to learning basic techniques for reducing sexual violence and sexual harassment through bystander interventions, and how to share these techniques across your campus or workplace.

The workshop facilitator is Jennifer Wies. Her anthropological research addresses sexual and gender-based violence intervention and prevention systems. Jennifer has worked as a frontline victim advocate with campus and community organizations and was a member of the team founding the Green Dot bystander education program. She serves as the President-Elect for the Association for Feminist Anthropology and Treasurer for the Society for Applied Anthropology.

This workshop supports the AAA's implementation of the 2018 Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault Policy and is recognized by the Members Programmatic Advisory and Advocacy Committee as a key strategy for meeting the AAA's goals to establish professional conduct across all domains and spaces of practice for anthropology. The Association for Feminist Anthropology partners in these efforts by sponsoring this workshop session.

That Almost Finished Journal Article Workshop

Workshop Pricing (USD): $40 student/$80 professional

Affiliated with: Society for Medical Anthropology

Workshop Track: Academic Career Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Post-graduates, junior professors with tenure-track positions, adjunct instructors, advanced graduate students (ABD), international scholars

Are you on the third draft of a paper, unsure whether it's ready for submission? Stuck rewriting a conference presentation or dissertation chapter into a publishable article? Avoiding resubmitting an article because of daunting reviewer comments? Do you have questions about peer review and editorial processes? Designed for junior professors, post-docs, advanced graduate students (ABD), and international scholars interested in publishing in English-language journals, this all-day, hands-on workshop provides the guidelines and feedback needed to finish revising and submit your article for peer review.

To increase the likelihood that your work will be accepted for publication, the facilitator leads you through examining the components of your draft manuscript to make sure you: hook readers and state a central point at the beginning, have a balanced structure, provide signposts and transitions guiding readers through your argument, link data to analysis, and compose a solid conclusion. The facilitator demystifies the peer review process, discusses strategies for steady publication, and provides checklists for manuscript preparation.

To participate fully in the workshop, bring 2 double-spaced print copies of a draft manuscript you are planning to submit or resubmit to a journal. Include your current abstract, total word count, name of the journal, and maximum words permitted by that journal. A laptop is recommended but not required. For more information, contact Dr. Jaida Samudra (jaidasamudra (at) gmail), a medical anthropologist with two decades experience editing journal articles and scholarly books in the social sciences. Increasingly, anthropologists are seeking ways to connect their research, discoveries, and thinking to a broad, public audience. But how? This workshop brings together experts to provide insights into the art and craft of public engagement. Chip Colwell, editor-in-chief of Sapiens, Amanda Mascarelli, managing editor of Sapiens, and Jeff Martin, the AAA's Director of Communications and Public Affairs will explain the importance of storytelling and how to write for the public. Workshop participants will learn how to master storytelling techniques that speak to the heart as well as the head, and position yourself as a trusted resource, both with the media and in the community. Participants will also learn how to write for SAPIENS and other popular magazines and newspapers. The editors will provide a framework to approach popular writing and an understanding of the publication process. We will close the workshop with a practice “pitch” session, where you get to try out turning your research into a clear, compelling story that will resonate with the listener. Public engagement is a craft that must be cultivated, so please come join us to sharpen your skills and learn about how you can engage a broad public audience to make your research matter.

Communication that is found outside of verbal language is fundamental to mind-body-place-based knowledges. The field of somatic communication pushes the conception of a communicating self past the notion of a bound individual (by skin, rationality, nation or otherwise) and focuses instead on the interrelations and intra-relations of being, belonging and becoming. The worlding of relationships is implicit in these cross-cultural networks that note patterns of differences and similarities in movement tendencies and experiences in addition to reflecting upon how situated knowledges and intersectionality affect notions of the self. Emplacement along with embodiment, then, are key to interpreting people and the networks within which they are intricately interwoven. Bringing theory into practice this workshop extends a felt understanding of self through movement. Based in part on research with the Institute for the Study of Somatic Communication (ISSC), this workshop offers a moment to experience being, belonging and becoming through contact improvisation and ensemble movement. First, we will develop the sense of presence, which can be felt long before any contact with the skin because the attention of someone carries tactile pressure. Then, we will emphasize raising somatic communication skills in this sensorial realm of mind-body-world (otherwise known as self) to improve human interpretations of being, belonging and becoming transnationally. In this two-hour workshop we will join ensemble dancing with contact improvisation through concept building, skills training, and movement research. Come join us in enhancing your skills of non-verbal communication and tactile sensing!!

3-0695 Decolonial Feminist Activist and Community-Engaged Research: A Strengths-Based Approach to Developing Our Practice, Creating Space in Our Institutions, and Deepening Our Relationships to Initiate a Community of Praxis Workshop

Workshop Track: Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: The target audience for this workshop is: early career scholars and students seeking to deepen their praxis of decolonial feminist activist and community-engaged scholarship

Anthropologists have been grappling with how to decolonize the discipline for decades (Harrison, 1991; Tuhiwai Smith, 1999). This workshop contributes to this ongoing conversation through a strengths-based, collective exploration of decolonial feminist activist and community-engaged scholarship (Hyland & Bennett, 2013; Babb, 2018). First, through case studies from workshop facilitators’ own experiences, participants will deepen their understanding of what it means to implement methodologies and pedagogies that: (1) contribute to decolonization of the discipline, (2) prioritize decolonial feminist activism, and (iii) strengthen and sustain community-engagement. Second, participants will share examples from their own research and/or teaching and use their strengths (knowledge, experience, networks) to collectively support the identification of strategies to shift each person's praxis and create space for this shift within their institutions. Third, participants will draft a mission statement, core values, and a relationships map as the foundation for initiating a Decolonial Feminist Activist and Community-Engaged Community of Praxis (COP). Each participant will leave the workshop with two key take-aways: (1) a personal action plan to transform their scholarship and institutional spaces through a series of practical and incremental actions, and (2) a draft Community of Praxis Charter that includes a collective action plan to further develop the COP beyond the Conference. From Bateson's and Mead's "Democracies and Dictators" to Tsing's and Pollman's "Global Futures", anthropologists have long taken an interest in designing games that tell stories about anthropological ideas. In this workshop, we will discuss digital game engines and interactive storytelling platforms that can be utilized to explore themes in social, behavioral, and cultural theory such as play, cooperation, evolution and change, symbols, and power. The experiential and empathetic qualities of games can be a powerful medium for learning. In this workshop, we will engage gaming from a variety of perspectives, culminating in game design and play-testing. Game designers will introduce game design as a platform for the critique of power and the articulation of marginalized voices. Panelists will discuss and analyze how the narratives and mechanics of games convey meaning and engage players in a worldview. Since many popular games are based on colonial and Eurocentric premises, we will invite participants to reimagine, "hack", and decolonize games. The workshop includes a creative, hands-on design lab (maker space), facilitated by an experienced game designer, where we will learn about the basic elements of game design through the interactive storytelling platform, Twine. Workshop participants will develop games based on anthropological theory and method. We will prototype and play-test the games produced in the workshop, as well as other anthro-inspired games and arcade games, during #AnthropologyCon III. Workshop Tracks: Practicing/Applied Career Development, Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Students, generalists, practicing / applied anthropologists, faculty teaching evaluation courses

Everyone talks about Impact these days. Impact is about changes in the environment following interventions and Impact Evaluation helps provide information about these changes and what caused them. This workshop will provide a practical introduction to common evaluation tools and concepts that can be used to consider changes resulting from interventions, projects, programs and policies. Using a mix of activities and discussion, workshop attendees will learn how to develop logic models and theories of change with participatory approaches to ensure that stakeholder voices and perspectives are included. In addition, the workshop will address ways to develop key evaluation questions and design practical approaches to data collection and analysis to understand and describe contributions to these changes. Finally, creative ways of communicating impact with a focus on utilization of results will be considered. Attendees will leave with resources for incorporating tools and methods into their applied anthropology work.

Sexual violence and sexual harassment is a persistent, ongoing problem that has seen little change, despite decades of activism, advocacy, and legislation. This session is for anthropologists at all career stages, and will be especially useful for program and department coordinators/directors, department chairs/heads, and other administrative leaders. We will review the policies guiding sexual violence and sexual harassment intervention and prevention in the United States, with special consideration of higher education institutions. We will focus on identifying best practices for creating safer learning environments, including: crafting statements for safe learning environments, educational spaces, and syllabi; providing information and support for students completing off-site course activities (study abroad/away, civic engagement, etc.); supporting anti-violence/harassment education and training; and forming partnerships with internal and external allies.

The workshop facilitator is Jennifer Wies. Her anthropological research addresses sexual and gender-based violence intervention and prevention systems. Jennifer has worked as a frontline victim advocate with campus and community organizations and was a member of the team founding the Green Dot bystander education program. She serves as the President-Elect for the Association for Feminist Anthropology and Treasurer for the Society for Applied Anthropology.

This workshop supports the AAA's implementation of the 2018 Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault Policy and is recognized by the Members Programmatic Advisory and Advocacy Committee as a key strategy for meeting the AAA's goals to establish professional conduct across all domains and spaces of practice for anthropology. The Association for Feminist Anthropology partners in these efforts by sponsoring this workshop session.

You bump into an old acquaintance, or your CEO, or even the head of that grant-funding institution you've been pitching for years and they ask you what you're up to. Will you stutter, sputter and stammer? Or will you smile and deliver the perfect "elevator pitch" — a brief, persuasive synopsis that you use to spark interest in a project, idea — or yourself. A good elevator pitch should last no longer than a short elevator ride of 20 to 30 seconds, hence the name. By the end of this workshop, you will be able to:

- Tailor it to your audience
- Make your pitch interesting, memorable, and succinct
- Communicate your unique selling proposition
- Relay exactly who you are, what you do, and how you add value to society

After a brief introduction and review, we will break into groups, write our own pitches, then practice them before the other attendees. Communicate with confidence — you'll be able to put this skill to work right away, first on a demonstration stage and then throughout the rest of the Annual Meeting and beyond.

The medium of ethnographic theater is a relatively underexplored terrain for the re-presentation of ethnographic material and for building new forms of anthropological analysis and knowledge. It is also a dynamic arena for collaboration, experimentation, multi-modal production, and public scholarship. This hands-on workshop (4 hours) introduces participants to this dynamic terrain and to theories and methods of ethnographic theater-making. Participants will first be introduced to a range of performance ethnography and ethnographic theater traditions, such as verbatim documentary theater, Image Theater, ethnodrama, and devised theater. Participants will then be led through a series of physical and practical exercises in theater-making. This includes a combination of theater and movement exercises, break-out group exercises, interactions with multi-media material, and dramatic readings. Participants are invited to bring their own research fieldnotes and interview transcripts to work with as we draft short playscripts, sketches, and scenes. Through the facilitation work of experimental anthropologist and theater-maker Debra Vidali (Emory University, Atlanta), participants will be drawn into an immersive process of fast-paced ethnographic theater creation focused on developing improvised vignettes, physical tableaux, and short monologues/dialogues. We will also explore post-workshop opportunities for producing pop up versions of our collaborative theater work, which might for example be performed the following day in an open area of the Vancouver conference venue.

Keeping the move for “antropoesia” in contemporary anthropology central, this workshop will explore ethnographic poetry as a mode of ethnopoetics that posits that an ethnographer-poet observes the field in ways other than objective. We invite poet-ethnographers, and creative writers to an exciting session of experimenting with writing poetry, and explore how it allows for capturing the field. We will explore ethnographic poetry as a mode of ethnopoetics, which strengthens the move for antropoesia in contemporary ethnographic writing. Renato Rosaldo describes “antropoesia,” as a bridging the cultural and social scientific fields of poetry and anthropology. Through guided writing, prompts, and readings we will craft poems during the session, and discuss how the ethnographic poetry becomes a witness that meshes together the ethnographer as a professional and a visceral human with a deeply personal and humanistic voice. This workshop aims to encourage anthropologists to write more creative, and heartfelt ethnographies and will aim for producing publishable pieces written by the participants.

With an estimated 40 million people in modern slavery around the world, many governments, international agencies, NGOs, businesses and local grassroots groups are engaged in anti-trafficking programs and policies. This workshop will provide an overview of useful theories, practices and emerging trends in research and evaluation of interventions that address modern slavery, forced labour and human trafficking. Root causes of slavery in different contexts and sustainable intervention approaches will be considered. Measuring prevalence, developing standardized indicators, building evidence and including survivor voices will be discussed.

As anthropologists and filmmakers, how do we work against the colonial residue of conventional documentary and ethnographic filmmaking? Join us for a four hour, two-part workshop organized by the feminist ethnographic filmmaking collective Ethnocine. Together we will nurture a space to think critically about this question and the many ethical quandaries that arise in not only “writing culture” but also in “visualizing it” through ethnographic and documentary filmmaking practice. In Part 1, Ethnocine members will show excerpts of and reflect upon their own works-in-progress, focusing on three primary themes — intersectional feminism, collaboration, and decolonial filmmaking praxis. In Part 2, select participants will share works-in-progress, with Ethnocine members and workshop attendees offering support, feedback and constructive problem-solving around filmmaking ethical and methodological concerns. Throughout the workshop, we will ask ourselves and each other: What does it mean to decolonize ethnographic and documentary film? What are the tools we can use to work towards feminist and decolonial approaches to collaboration? Anyone with experience (or an interest) in visual anthropology and documentary filmmaking is welcome.

If you are interested in submitting your work-in-progress (2–10 min work sample in the form of a teaser, scene select, rough cut excerpt, etc.) to be workshopped in Part 2, please contact Elena Guzman (ehg38@cornell.edu) and Mariangela Jordan (mj427@cornell.edu).

Workshop Track: Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Students, midcareer, practicing/applied

In this workshop participants will learn concepts and obtain resources for doing research in partnership with Indigenous peoples. We will review subject-object relations in the colonial roots of anthropology; discuss new movements for epistemic justice and knowledge democracy; and consider how anthropologists can uniquely contribute to co-producing knowledge. We will present practical tools for conducting research in partnership which are based in CBPR approaches to research. CBPR emphasizes collaboration in all phases of research projects, including design, implementation, co-authorship, and dissemination of research results. Participants will learn about Tribal research ethics review, and innovations in data management and control.

Powerful ethnographies transport us to other times and places via the effective use of characterization, tone, dialogue, and other literary techniques. But the best ethnographies do more than tell good stories; they transform our thinking about the world—and about ourselves—through carefully wrought analysis.

In this three-hour participatory workshop, participants will learn to transform fieldnotes or reflections into compelling, theoretically rich ethnographic stories. To participate fully in the workshop, participants will email the facilitator(s) a 300–500-word draft of the ethnographic story they would most like to tell at least 48 hours prior to our meeting. In the workshop, participants will work collaboratively to discover and to demonstrate the theoretical significance of each participant's story. Participants will also learn techniques of creative non-fiction and self-editing that will enable them to transform the stories they have submitted into lively, concise, and engaging prose. The session will end with a roundtable on how ethnographers can become better storytellers.

5-0295 Addressing Academic Precarity: How to Transition from Academia to Industry Workshop

Workshop Pricing (USD): $20 student/$40 professional

Workshop Tracks: Academic Career Development, Practicing/Applied Career Development, Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Students, applied anthropologists, adjuncts, overworked and poorly compensated academics

Even though 80% of anthropology graduate students will not get tenure-track jobs, PhD programs in the U.S. are still exclusively training students to become professors. To address this training gap, this workshop will guide students, adjuncts, and other anthropologists for a career beyond academia. The workshop will prepare participants to:

1. Identify careers and industries beyond academia best suited for anthropologists,
2. Network and communicate academic skills to local industry leaders and organizations,
3. Translate academic skills into a professional resume and cover letter, and
4. Develop a personal online narrative of their research and skills for a broad audience.

As with any ethnographic project, the transition from academia to the "exotic" field of industry is about studying the unknown, learning their language, and interpreting these findings to make sense of the field. Without compromising the unique research skills and social theory frameworks that anthropologists bring to industry, this workshop will help anthropologists successfully make the transition from academia to industry.

National Association for the Practice of Anthropology

Workshop Track: Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Any anthropologist without a strong film background who is interested in reaching a larger audience by communicating through film

Would you like to share your work with a broader audience through film? This workshop guides you through the process of making a short video and provides tips on achieving professional looking and sounding results on a limited budget. No prior experience is necessary.

You will receive a comprehensive packet. Using targeted questions in your packet, we'll take you step-by-step through the stages of filmmaking: development (refining your idea and budget), pre-production (putting in place your team, equipment, and access to locations and people), production (filming), post-production (editing, polishing), and outreach/distribution (getting your film to your intended audience). We'll also touch on ethical considerations specific to anthropological filmmaking.

You'll complete the workshop with a concrete plan to get you started and keep you on task. To help you troubleshoot challenges, we'll provide each participant a free sixty-minute phone consult anytime before AAA's 2020 Annual Meeting in St. Louis, MO.

5-0305 Methods for Disseminating and Translating Research to Action Across the Lifespan Workshop

Workshop Pricing (USD): $20 student/$40 professional

Workshop Track: Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Students, generalists, practicing and applied anthropologists

This workshop is designed for anthropologists and other social scientists wishing to develop frameworks, strategies and concrete plans for disseminating their work to multiple audiences and to develop interventions with specific groups with whom they have carried out research. Ethical practices of social science professions call for sharing research results with study populations, service providers, and policymakers and when possible, the development of interventions with the study population that address issues arising during the research. Neither dissemination of research results to multiple audiences nor approaches to intervention development with local communities is typically taught in anthropology graduate training. These components of dissemination and intervention are missing and are very much needed in the growing field of life-course studies and aging.

The workshop will be organized into two sections: a) dissemination planning, and b) research-based intervention approaches. An international group of experienced facilitators will use a combination of brief lectures and individual and small group activities to enable participants to create their own dissemination and/or intervention plans based on their own settings, materials, and research results. Facilitators will use case examples across the lifespan as illustrations. Dissemination plans will include framing messages based on research results to target audiences including the study community as well as other users. Intervention development will include partnership creation, an intervention problem and model, analysis of intervention resources and approaches, and links to broader theory. All participants will examine the ethical considerations of their work.

Workshop Tracks: Academic Career Development, Humanistic Anthropology, Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Students, faculty, and researchers who are interested in exploring gendered constructions and experiential pedagogy are welcome to participate

This workshop is designed to experience two rituals that support the life cycle ritual of marriage in the United States. The traditional wedding ritual unites two individuals in marriage and legitimizes the union of two people and any offspring they choose to have. But there are at least three rituals that lead up to this big day: the bridal shower, the bachelor party, and the bachelorette party (a mirror image of the party devoted to the groom's "last night out”). The participants in this workshop will “perform” gender as we participate in a traditional bridal shower and bachelor party, experiencing the games, cakes, and general atmosphere appropriate for the bride and groom. The co-organizers have experience with performing ethnography in the classroom, including these two rituals. Performance facilitates a form of “embodied learning,” transforming more traditional anthropological and ethnographic perspectives of society and culture into special kinds of experienced realities. As a pedagogical tool to provide participants with an informed experience with ritual forms that reflect and recreate gender, this workshop will be both fun and informative. While these rituals are primarily associated with the Anglo American White Wedding, as rituals they respond to the imaginations of the participants and are not necessarily restricted to a particular race, ethnicity or heteronormativity as experienced. Come and be prepared to play, reflect, and experience these ethnographic performances for yourself.

5-0705 Experiments in Multimodal Anthropology: Mark-Making, Drawing and Painting Fieldnotes . . . and More Workshop

Workshop Pricing (USD): $10 student/$20 professional

Affiliated with: Society for Visual Anthropology

Workshop Track: Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Anyone interested in multimodal anthropology, with an emphasis on the visual

How can mark-making in the form of drawing, painting and sketching contribute to multimodal anthropology? What sorts of field data can be recorded by using these methods? How do they shape a different way of observing? How might they lead to different ways of sharing information in publications or other forms? And how can the visual complement other modalities such as sound, film, photography, or movement at all stages of anthropological knowledge production? Using materials from different research sites and projects, we present a variety of examples and approaches to jumpstart people’s use of visual techniques in ethnographic work, from fieldwork to public presentations as well as in collaborative work. The point is not to be “an artist,” but rather to pick up pen, pencil, or brush and see the world (perceive and understand) in new ways.

Affiliated with: Society for Linguistic Anthropology

Workshop Track: Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Graduate students in linguistic anthropology and sociocultural anthropology, graduate students studying politics and political rhetorics

Led by Dr. Hilary Parsons Dick, PhD in cultural and linguistic anthropology and Associate Professor of International Studies at Arcadia University, this two-hour workshop will offer introductory training in how to apply the principals and techniques of ethnographic discourse analysis to the study of political rhetoric. Students will be led through the process of moving from ethnographically collected linguistic data to an organized and theoretically grounded anthropological analysis that links specific moments of interaction to processes that unfold at and beyond specific speech events. The workshop is intended to help students who wish to incorporate linguistic and semiotic analysis into their scholarship, whether as a primary method or as one of several methods of analysis.

The workshop is open to graduate students in the fields of linguistic and cultural anthropology. Prior experience with ethnographic discourse analysis is beneficial, but not required. Students should come prepared with a laptop computer and any data they would like to work on during the workshop. If students have a preferred data analysis software, they may bring it, but it is not required to engage in the workshop.

ORGANIZER: Lauren Deal (Brown University)
 PRESENTER: Hilary Dick (Arcadia University)

5-0715 Career Exploration and Education: An Ethnographic and Narrative Approach Workshop

Workshop Pricing (USD): $20 student/$40 professional

Affiliated with: Society for Linguistic Anthropology
 Society for the Anthropology of Work

Workshop Track: Academic Career Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Students, practicing/applied, advisors/faculty

This workshop is designed to engage participants in guided introspection about connections among academic, applied research, and teaching interests. Anthropologists will bring rigorously honed methodological and linguistic analytic skills to the task of researching their own (academic and nonacademic) careers, and to inform their next steps professionally.

Part One — Ethnography: Participants will work in pairs to investigate and explore their interests. Following a guide, partners will ask one another open-ended questions that illuminate motivators and drivers and explore professional expressions of these meaningful aspects of their lives.

Part Two — Narrative: Each participant will create and tell a story about a professional challenge and its solution. Drawing from narrative analysis, the group will provide feedback (following a rubric) about how these stories construct and convey identity and meaning, considering possible options for reframing: i.e. creating a more agentive stances. Participants will discuss how context (networking, informational or job interviewing) might inform design and use of these stories.

Part Three — Networking: Participants will have the opportunity to practice networking with invited professionals from a range of fields (i.e. localization, educational technology). By focusing on the formulation of professional requests, participants will cultivate networking connections and experience, ultimately recognizing their role in creating opportunities (for themselves and the field more broadly).

ORGANIZERS/PRESENTERS: Anna Trester (Career Linguist)
 Katherine Nelson (Independent Scholar)

3:30 – 5:30 PM | Room 18 | Vancouver CC EAST | East Meeting Level

5-0995 Graduate Student Workshop: Ethnographic Discourse Analysis in the Study of Race, Racism, and Racial Inequality Workshop

Workshop Pricing (USD): $10 student/$20 professional

Affiliated with: Society for Linguistic Anthropology

Workshop Track: Technical Skill Development

This session may be of particular interest to: Graduate Students, Linguistic anthropologists, sociocultural anthropologists

One of the more difficult challenges in working on race, racism, and racial inequality is figuring out how one can contribute a specifically linguistic analysis, one that goes beyond content to offer a more nuanced analysis of linguistic form. This two-hour workshop will offer introductory training in how to apply the principles and techniques of ethnographic discourse analysis to research related to race. We begin with a brief discussion of what constitutes ethnographic discourse analysis, considering data collected through more traditional participant observation methods but also the collection of online/social media data or written texts. We will discuss the linguistic features an analyst should keep in mind, including both racially marked linguistic features (such as the use of codeswitching or stigmatized dialects) and more generally useful discourse tools (including stance, register, voicing, etc.). Led by Jennifer Roth-Gordon, a linguistic and cultural anthropologist who has worked on race in Brazil and teaches graduate seminars at the University of Arizona, this workshop is intended for students who wish to incorporate linguistic and semiotic analysis into their scholarship, as a primary method or as one of several methods of analysis. Students should come prepared with a laptop computer and any data they would like to work on during the workshop.

Prior registration is required. Participants are encouraged to reach out to the instructor upon enrolling in the workshop in order to discuss interests and receive optional readings/assignments prior to the start of the meetings in Vancouver.

PRESENTER: Jennifer Roth-Gordon

KALABANDAR: Scarves from Afar . . . . . 305

Beautiful on their own, some are further enhanced with block printing, wax batik designs, shibori tie and dye, or kantha stitch. Kalabandar is committed to fair trade principles, and supports traditional textile craftsmanship in India through partnerships with numerous fair trade organizations, NGOs and artisans, many of whom have worked with the Craft Council of India to develop and market their work to generate widespread recognition and a sustainable income. One of Kalabandar's partners, Disha, is an outstanding success story. A self-help group whose roots go back to the deserts of Rajasthan, it was founded by a woman in a very conservative rural district which sees husbands go overseas to work, but seldom return. The force of nature who spearheads this organization employs more than 400 women from the surrounding villages, training them in all aspects of tie dye and shibori. The results are stunning — both the women's self-reliance, and the textile works of art they create.
